Stuart Henderson of Victoria and H. Castillon of Vancouver Will Act For George Brothers Although Other Counsel Sent By Dominion Department

First Witness Heard This Afternoon

Vernon, B.C., June 26.—An argument as to whether the Indian Department or privately-engaged counsel should represent the accused occurred when the trial of Richardson, Alex, and Eneas George, charged with murder, opened here to-day. The natives from the Canford Reserve are on trial for the slaying of Dominion Indian Department Constable F. H. Gishbourne, before Mr. Justice Denis Murphy and a jury of twelve men.

The defence exercised fifty challenges before the jury was chosen, while Attorney-General Gordon Sloan exercised only four for the Crown. Before the trialmen were called, H. W. Galbraith informed the judge he was there at the instigation of the Department of Indian Affairs to conduct the defence of the three brothers.

"I have written instructions from Ottawa," he said, "and they had not been received, despite the appearance here of Mr. Stuart Henderson and Mr. Henry Castillon of Victoria and Vancouver."

"The three defendants," said Stuart Henderson, "have chosen me and my colleagues. They are on trial for their lives and have the right to choose their own counsel. I will conduct their defence and I want to add right now that in so doing I will not brook interference of the Indian Department or Mr. Galbraith in any shape or form. I have not conferred

Man Held On Robbery Charge

Winnipeg Police Say J. Ercheeson Confessed Bank Hold-up

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, June 26.—John Ercheeson, twenty-five, who told police he was a road surveyor from Halifax, was arrested here to-day just as he was about to board a train for Vancouver, and charged with robbing the Portage Avenue and Arlington Street branch of the Royal Bank of Canada in Winnipeg last Friday.

Police said they had obtained a confession from the prisoner and that F. W. Wilson, branch manager, had identified him as the man who herded himself and three employees into the vault and escaped with $3,200.

In Ercheeson's suitcase was found approximately $3,000 in bills, and a .45-calibre revolver was concealed in his trousers leg, the police said.

U.S. NAVAL PLANES MAY VISIT VICTORIA

Twelve Machines Are Scheduled to Leave San Diego, Cal., July 17 For Alaska

Victorians may see a squadron of twelve United States naval planes in the second half of July. The flight from California to Alaska was announced to-day with the following dispatch:

Washington, June 26.—The United States army and navy will engage in a twin flight to Alaska in July. After announcement that twelve army bombing planes would make a mass training and photographic flight to Nome early in July, the navy said to-day twelve patrol planes would fly from San Diego up the Pacific coast to Dutch Harbor.

The army flight will start from Washington some time during the first two weeks in July, and the navy flight will begin July 17.

The planes will make a number of stops in United States and Canadian cities en route and on their return.

Officials described the twin flight as a "coincidence." They said the flights would not be a joint aerial manoeuvre for the theoretical defence of Alaska from a foreign foe.

England Has Drought Problems

England has suffered severely from the drought, the above picture shows. While in normal times tons of water gush over the Teddington Weir, here is how the big dam appeared after twenty-six days without rain—with nary a trickle in sight.

NRA STUDIED BY ROTARY

International Gathering at Detroit Pears of Economic Policies

Associated Press
Detroit, June 26.—Rotarians from three-score nations scrutinized to-day the operation of business under the NRA and sought to determine just how fully its codes embody the principles of Rotary.

The second session of the twenty-fifth annual convention of Rotary International heard an address by Charles F. Kettering, research engineer of the General Motors Corporation.

As the 10,000 delegates took up their discussion, they were asked:

"Which will tend more fully to develop world resources with greater ultimate benefits to society—'National economic planning by industrial and commercial countries' or 'A well planned international exchange of goods and services'?"

President John Nelson of Montreal, at yesterday's opening session, said: "No one can contemplate what President Roosevelt seeks to accomplish without appreciating how intimately his objective is related to the objectives of Rotary."

Beach Babies

SHIRLEY JOAN MAIN was having a lot of fun making sand pies when the camera caught her. She had previously enjoyed her dip in Spoon Bay. Shirley, three years old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Main, 1244 Grant Street.

Attempts to Burn Library Building In Vancouver

Vancouver, June 26.—Police to-day were hunting the person or persons who yesterday evening attempted to set fire to the old city hall, now the Library Annex.

Entering the building shortly before 8 o'clock this morning, Frank Caley, janitor, found the premises filled with smoke. He soon located two separate places where fire had been set, but no great damage was done.

Papers and Christmas tree decorations had been piled beneath and on chairs in the children's classroom and ignited, and fire had been set to books and papers in the vault of the order room.

Officials believe the "fire-bug" concealed himself in the building at the time the library was closed for the day.

BOGUS 50-CENT COINS CIRCULATE

Vancouver, June 26.—Warning is being given throughout this district of counterfeit 50-cent pieces being in circulation. Several made their appearance over the weekend and police fear more of the spurious coins will show up.

In view of the above dispatch, Chief of Police Heatley this morning warned Victorians to be on the lookout for bogus coins here as on previous occasions they have circulated quickly in Victoria.

WELFARE HEAD TO LEAVE POST

Retirement of William Manson Expected as Reorganization Progresses

The reorganization of British Columbia provincial welfare services launched by the Provincial Secretary, will involve the retirement of William Manson, superintendent of welfare. It was understood at the Parliament Buildings this morning.

Mr. Manson has held the post for the last four years. He administers mothers' pensions, care of neglected children and grants for the poor and destitute.

Mr. Manson's resignation will take effect immediately, it is understood. The change in staff is part of a plan to put the whole of the welfare services of the province under a unified system, over which Dr. Harry M. Cassidy will function as director.

Marie Dressler Fights For Health

Associated Press
Santa Barbara, Calif., June 26.—Isolated on an estate here, Marie Dressler, screen and stage actress, sought to-day to regain her health, impaired by a complication of illnesses.

No visitors except a few studio representatives have been permitted at her bedside.

Friends say she apparently is in no immediate danger.

Pretty Nurses Wearing Shorts

Create Mild Sensation as They Arrive From Vancouver on Holiday Hike to Nanaimo

A mild sensation was caused in the business district of Nanaimo to-day by two pretty, young nurses from Vancouver attired in bright orange sweaters and green and beige shorts and carrying hiking packs on their shoulders.

The interest they aroused surprised them.

"This is the kind of costume in which we nurses spend the greater part of our leisure time in Vancouver," they told a reporter who chased out of the office in anticipation of a cross-country hitch-hike story.

With heavy shoes, business-like packs and a long swinging stride the two nurses looked well able to fulfill their object of hiking to Nanaimo. They stated that they intended to make the trip by easy stages, stopping off at hotels on the way. There was, of course, always the rain.

They believed that walking was the best way to obtain a true idea of the Malahat and were not concerned about the billy winking before them.

The hikers are from a Vancouver hospital. They arrived in the city yesterday evening on the Gulf Island boat, after an interesting trip through the islands. They will probably return to their home town from Nanaimo.

The taller of the two young visitors carried a camera with which she asserted she was recording all the unusual sights which they saw.

"Let me take your picture?" she said to the reporter who interviewed them.

Reversing the usual proceeding, she did not, and they both then declined to pose for a news picture.

Chicago Fair Wants Jimmy Walker

Chicago, June 26.—James J. Walker, mayor of New York City, was called in London a $100,000 offer for a five weeks' personal appearance with his wife, Betty Compton, at the Chicago Fair.

The offer was made yesterday evening by Lew Dufour, manager of the Hawaiian Gardens concession.

Reports Say Heenan and Euler May Aid Hepburn With Plans In Ontario

WILL BE ONTARIO CABINET MINISTERS

Duncan Marshall, left, slated to be Minister of Agriculture in the new Hepburn Cabinet, and Harry C. Nixon, who will be Provincial Secretary.

Premier-Elect Returns to Toronto From Ottawa, Where He Talked With Mr. King and Other Leading Liberals; Cabinet May Be Announced To-morrow

Rumors Numerous In Federal Capital

Ottawa, June 26.—Hon. Peter Heenan, M.P., former federal Minister of Labor, may enter the Hepburn government as Minister of Lands and Forests, and Hon. W. D. Euler, M.P., former Minister of National Revenue, may enter the provincial field as head of the Ontario Hydro Commission with a non-portfolio post in the provincial cabinet.

With Premier-elect Mitchell F. Hepburn in the city, rumors flew thick and fast to-day on the personnel of the Ontario cabinet which will take over power in a week or less, but there was no official foundation for any of them.

Entry of the former Labor Minister was the most persistent rumor. He is a former member of the Ontario Legislature, lives in Kenora and has been a relentless critic of the administration of the Henry and Ferguson governments in the lands and forest branches for years. He took an active part in the provincial election that swept the Liberals into office.

Since 1925 Mr. Heenan has represented Kenora-Rainy River in the House of Commons.

Mr. Euler, who represents North Waterloo, Ont., in the Commons, is one of the most ardent champions of public ownership in the federal field and it is understood he has been given the reins of the Hydro post. He lives in Kitchener. Although never in the provincial House he has been successful in every Dominion election since 1917.

EDMONTON COURT CROWDED AT TRIAL

Vivian MacMillan, Asking Damages Against Premier of Alberta, Answers Many Questions on Cross Examination

By George Finlay, Canadian Press Staff Writer
Edmonton, June 26.—A morning of fast cross-examination over Miss Vivian MacMillan, a girl who was raised in a small Alberta town, Edson, and came to the capital alone four years ago stepped from the witness stand shortly after noon to-day, her face tear-stained, and showing traces of nervousness.

Seeking unstated damages from fifty-year-old Premier John E. Brownlee, head of the Alberta Government for nearly a decade, Miss MacMillan was cross-examined by A. L. Smith, K.C., of Calgary.

Her suit alleges seduction, and for more than two hours to-day she maintained her charges of intimate relationship and the circumstances leading to them.

Several times the examination was halted when Miss MacMillan broke down, tears streaming down her cheeks as she was permitted

LOWER FREIGHT RATES ARE ASKED

Vancouver, B.C., June 26.—The city council has endorsed the application of Thomas Reid, M.P. for New Westminster, to the Railway Commission, for a reduction in freight rates on mill feed and feed grain to British Columbia.

The council was informed the application is expected to be heard by the full commission in Ottawa.

MINISTER STATES BULLETS FIRED INTO CELL DURING RIOT

Commons Hears First Official Statement From Hon. Hugh Guthrie on How Tim Buck Was Treated in Kingston Penitentiary in October, 1932

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 26.—Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, bare one of the highlights of the Kingston penitentiary riot of October, 1932, in the House of Commons yesterday evening when he said guards and soldiers fired eleven shots into the cell of Tim Buck, former Communist Party leader.

The soldiers had been rushed to the big prison beside Lake Ontario soon after rioting broke out. The shots were fired into Buck's cell. Mr. Guthrie said, "to frighten him and dissuade him from inciting the inmates to further rioting."

Early this year A. E. Smith of Toronto, national secretary of the Canadian Labor Defence League, was charged with sedition for allegedly stating Prime Minister R. B. Bennett had ordered Buck was to be shot in his cell during the riots. Smith was acquitted.

U.S. Missionary In China Murdered

Hongkong, June 26.—The Dominion Mission to-day received word from Sanctor Ray Fisher, U.S. Mission, a young American from New Orleans, who came to China a short time ago, had been murdered by Chinese communists at Fogan, in southern Fukien province.

QUINTUPLETS STEADILY GAIN

Corbell, Ont., June 26.—Cries of the twenty-nine-day-old Dionne quintuplets have become so lusty they can be heard by visitors at the fence twenty-five feet from the Dionne farmhouse. The fence has barred visitors from anything but a sight of the home, but now they can boast of hearing yells of the youngsters.

The quintuplets now are taking sixty ounces of human milk daily between them, compared with twenty-five ounces when they were only a week old. They are also given all the water necessary.

Dr. A. R. Dufour reported to-day that they had gained two and one-half ounces since yesterday, each child participating in the increase. This was the eighth consecutive day they have gained as a group.

They now weigh twelve pounds, seven and three-quarter ounces compared with ten pounds one and one-quarter ounces on June 4, when they had their first accurate weighing.

into the cell of the Communist. The Justice Minister said, however, the shots were not directed at Buck. The ceiling of the cell was punctured.

"The situation was serious and Buck was one who had been encouraging the riot," Mr. Guthrie said in describing the incident. Troops had been called and guards were armed. "He was in his cell making speeches to the prisoners and encouraging the disorders."

"I suppose it was to frighten or cow him guards fired into the ceiling of his cell. There can be no doubt of this: if anyone had wanted to shoot Tim Duck it could have been done. The fact that eleven shots were fired and he was not hit shows they were not trying to hit him."

NO PEACE SINCE RIOTS
Ever since W. B. Megloughlin was appointed warden following the riots of 1932, peace was not restored to the penitentiary, Mr. Guthrie said. There were several threatening incidents, culminated by the fire of last May 18 which caused damage of $35,000. The minister said the fire had been traced to incendiaries.

The fire in the prison broke out at a time late in the afternoon when the convicts were being returned from work and when they were using the taps at the wash basins. As a result the water pressure was reduced to about 50 per cent of normal, and help had to be summoned from the Kingston fire department.

MEGLOUGHLIN'S SERVICE
With respect to Warden Megloughlin, Mr. Guthrie said he had been appointed temporary warden after the riots of October 17, 1932. Later his appointment was confirmed by the Civil Service Commission. He had served until June 15 last, during which he had had "a rather desperate experience," the minister said.

During Warden Megloughlin's rule "there was no time in which he could say he was not in danger of his life," said the minister.

Warden Megloughlin "did his best," the minister said, to run the penitentiary as it should be.

There were at least 50 dangerous inmates in the prison and many others who were afraid not to join them.

The minister said Warden Megloughlin had resigned ten days ago after being warned changes in the prison management were contemplated.

ASSAM FLOODS KILLS HUNDREDS

Canadian Press from Havas Calcutta, June 26.—Floods have caused the death or disappearance of several hundred persons in Assam, according to dispatches received here to-day.

He believed people all over Canada believed the time had come when departmental investigations were not enough.

Mr. Woodworth read at length from a letter written by a member of the law firm which defended the rioters, to Rev. Canon F. G. Scott of Quebec, describing conditions in the penitentiary.

The letter written by W. F. Nickle, K.C. of Kingston, declared 800 men in the penitentiary were not learning a "disgrace to this country."

The letter concluded with an appeal for an investigation, stating the inhuman conditions of incarceration and punishment he described were a "disgrace to this country."

Mr. Guthrie rose to reply, but Brig-General A. E. Ross, Conservative, Kingston, had the floor and declared the system was ancient, antique and bewitched with age.

RULING IN FACTOR CASE

Chicago Judge Orders Release If Washington Delays Extradition to Britain

Associated Press
Chicago, June 26.—Judge Evan A. Evans on the United States circuit court of appeals to-day ordered the release of John Factor, wealthy speculator, from the Sycamore, Ill., jail where he has been held pending issuance of a final order for his extradition to Great Britain on charges of defrauding investors of $7,000,000.

The judge delayed signing the order, however, until to-morrow, to permit counsel for the British crown to get in touch with the State Department at Washington.

Judge Evans acted on the writ of habeas corpus after receiving a petition presented by Factor's wife asking the release of her husband from custody.

The letter written by W. F. Nickle, K.C. of Kingston, declared 800 men in the penitentiary were not learning a "disgrace to this country."

The letter concluded with an appeal for an investigation, stating the inhuman conditions of incarceration and punishment he described were a "disgrace to this country."

Mr. Guthrie rose to reply, but Brig-General A. E. Ross, Conservative, Kingston, had the floor and declared the system was ancient, antique and bewitched with age.

"I am for punishment, I am for control of these institutions," Gen. Ross said, but they were falling in line with the three fundamental purposes of the three fundamental purposes for which penal institutions should strive.

The three purposes were deterrence of crime among those outside and reformation of the prisoner. The penitentiaries were failing both in the deterrence of crime and in reforming the convicts.

General Ross quoted penitentiary statistics indicating 75 per cent of the population were first offenders and 25 per cent were fourth offenders and offender. Buck was made a prisoner at the Collins Bay prison had been released after serving no longer.

He added Sam Carr and Matthew Popovitch, two of the imprisoned men, were the subjects of the letter.

Smith said a letter had been circulated among all members of the House of Commons "setting forth certain facts" in connection with the imprisonment of the Communists, and that the letters had been in possession of the members for some time.

EXTRADITION TO BE ASKED

New York Police Seek Indictments Against I. Poderjay, Now in Vienna

Associated Press
New York, June 26.—Police planned to seek two indictments to-day against Capt. Ivan Ivanovitch Poderjay, either one of which would suffice to extradite him from Vienna in connection with the disappearance of his talented bride, Agnes C. Tutverson.

A perjury indictment is sought on Poderjay's statement he was unmarried when he filled out a license to wed the woman corporation lawyer here last December 4. Eighteen days later he left the country and Miss Tutverson dropped from sight.

Hope for a larceny indictment is based on the finding in Poderjay's possession of clothing and jewelry which belonged to the missing woman.

with Mr. Galbraith since I arrived here for the very reason that I want no other assistance than that of my colleague."

DECLARE DESIRES
The judge instructed Albert Sterling to get from each prisoner an emphatic statement, not merely a preference, as to who should represent him, and each chose Mr. Henderson and Mr. Castilhou.

Mr. Henderson declared he would remain in the court with a watching brief for the department.

The judge was most specific in his instructions that every word of evidence be interpreted to the prisoners whether abstract, concrete or technical.

COURT ROOM CROWDED
The court room was crowded to capacity when the three prisoners, stolid and uncommunicative, were brought into the court. They are all short, but Richardson and Eneas are broad-shouldered.

It was to effect the arrest of Eneas that Constable Gishborne and Provincial Police Constable Percy Carr went to the Canford Reserve on the night of May 23.

Among the spectators was the widow of Constable Carr, whose body has not been recovered and who is not known to be present in court.

The first witness called was Oscar Gallagher of Merritt, who submitted plans of the reserve and the scene of the crime.

R. R. Earle of Vernon was added to the battery of crown counsel to-day.

My eyes were opened," replied the twenty-two-year-old witness.

"You fought on every occasion you went with Mr. Brownlee during the first six or seven months. He forced you," asked Mr. Smith. "Why did you go on the drives?"

"He said it was my duty to go," replied the witness.

"NASTY TEMPER"
"Why did you not do your fighting before you went on the drives?" "Because I was afraid of Mr. Brownlee. He has a very nasty temper."

For PRESIDENT TO SETTLE
San Francisco, June 26.—If negotiations fail to settle the strike of U.S. Pacific Coast longshoremen, the matter will be placed directly in the hands of President Roosevelt.

McGrady made the statement after a conference with Thomas G. Plant, representing the waterfront employees, to determine whether concessions might settle the long deadlock.

Meanwhile California National Guard officers received orders to prepare for any emergency, a new outbreak of violence occurred at Oakland, and State Attorney-General U.S. Webb informed Governor Merriam he had the power to call out the National Guard.

NO KAISER WANTED
Hamburg, Germany, June 26.—"We have killed the Kaiser," thundered Germany's minister without portfolio, Hermann Wilhelm Goerring, "and we are satisfied."

A great mass meeting which gathered to hear Goerring burst into ultimatum to a rising monarchist expression, gave the minister prolonged applause after his address.

The minister turned thumbs down on any hopes there might be for the return of a Hohenzollern to the throne under Hitler.

BIG CHANGES PREDICTED
New York, June 26.—The New York Post, in the first of three copyrighted articles by Johannes Steel, says Adolf Hitler's rule of Germany has come to an end and the Nazi dictatorship will be succeeded by a military dictatorship.

The article makes the following predictions:

"1. Tool of forces stronger than Hitler will be stripped of power, possibly within two weeks."

"2. Hjalmar Schacht, real ruler of Germany for the last six months, will remain dictator of economic and financial matters."

"3. The aged Von Hindenburg will retire."

"4. The former Crown Prince, or one of the ex-Kaiser's grandsons, or Hitler himself, will be made Regent or President."

VON PAPPEN MENTIONED
"5. Franz von Pappen or Hermann Wilhelm Goerring will become Chancellor."

"6. If Hitler is made President, executive power will be vested in the Chancellor; if a Hohenzollern becomes Regent, executive power will be theoretically his."

"7. Fritz Thyssen, steel and power baron, will hold his grip as czar of the Ruhr and Rhine basins."

Steel (the name is a nom de plume) was for several years economic adviser abroad for the German Ministry of Economics. He later became private secretary to the President of the Reichsbank, Hjalmar Schacht. On the day Hitler was appointed Chancellor, Steel was arrested and sent to a concentration camp. He escaped, made his way to the United States.

"FALSE HOPES"
Dulburg-Hamborn, Germany, June 26.—Those who expect Nazism to wane in Germany are living in "false hope," Rudolf Hess, Minister without portfolio, said in an address here yesterday in which he attacked the radical elements, formerly powerful among the Rhineland working class.

If Chancellor Hitler had not saved the country, he said, foreign armies would have made Germany the cockpit of Europe.

death of Henry A. Sifton, who died at his home here yesterday, was paid by the Toronto Mail and Empire in an editorial to-day.
The newspaper said:
"Henry Sifton is dead at the early age of forty-four. He will be missed by a host of friends, for he was a man of warm heart and pleasing personality. Few could resist his genial smile. The inheritor of a fortune, it ever turned his head. He was a true patriot and always played the game. A strong Liberal in politics, he could take issue with his leader if he thought that occasion warranted. Tomorrow the Dominion will see the power without him."
OTTAWA TRIBUTE
Ottawa, June 26.—The Ottawa
Journal says:
Henry Arthur ("Harry") Sifton, leader in Toronto, had an instinct for public service which wealth and social position did not weaken. A Liberal, he was not in the strict sense a good party man, being temperamentally incapable of the tax on political principles which party discipline exacts. Yet his independence was the sort of thing which, in the long run, is a tremendous asset to any party, and, because of that, to any country. It may well be, too, that as time goes on and government becomes more complex, men of the type of Harry Sifton will exert an increasing influence in public life.

BOY IS DROWNED

Winnipeg, Man., June 26 (Canadian Press).—Toussie-headed Naron Hay, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Hay, lost his life by drowning yesterday afternoon. Playing at Stevenson's Slip, Naron did not want to go home with his chums.
They left and he continued playing.
When he did not appear for supper his parents began a search. Finally they saw something floating on the water. It was Naron Hay. Artificial respiration was applied, but the child was past saving.

MERGER BILLS ARE DROPPED

Government Will Not Ask Parliament to Pass Telegraph-Express Measures

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 26.—The government will not proceed with the two bills designed to enable the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific to amal-gamate their telegraph and express services. Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways so informed the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.
The government had been asked by both railways to introduce this legislation. However, no agreement had been reached between the two pa-ties concerned. For that reason, said Mr. Manion, the government did not intend to proceed further with the bills.

Bomb Hurts Group; Gandhi Escapes

Canadian Press via Reuters
Poona, India, June 26.—A boy Scout band saved the life of Mahatma Gandhi here yesterday by blowing forth a welcome to an automobile in which it was believed Gandhi was riding. A bomb wrecked the car, injuring seven of the Mahatma's supporters, but Gandhi himself was not a passenger.
Police said the bomb was thrown just as the Scout band started to play a welcome to the political leader. It was a case of mistaken identity.
Gandhi arrived five minutes after the explosion in another car.
Authorities later announced they had arrested five men in connection with the bombing.

BROAD COURSES AT UNIVERSITY

Associated Press
Chicago, June 26.—Doors of the University of Chicago to-day were opened to "all who might profit by study" regardless of whether they had previous academic training.
President Robert Maynard Hutchins announced.
The university's new policy permits enrollment of students-at-large. They may participate in university studies without necessity of working toward a degree and without academic requirements. Intellectual capacity is their only qualification.

Portly Convicts On Rock Pile

Joliet, Ill., June 26.—The reducing fad has spread to the state penitentiary.
Assistant Warden George F. Sch-ering & the old state prison has prescribed a "rock diet" for convicts who are overweight. "Convicts who weigh over 200 pounds must reduce," he said. "We don't go in for eighteen-day diets around here, so we'll just assign those who are too heavy to work in the quarry for a while."

MAN IS FREED OF SUSPICION

Associated Press
London, June 26.—A Scottish Yard detective testified in court yesterday the police of Chicago had made an unfortunate mistake.
As a result of his testimony, a Bow Street police magistrate freed Julio Enrique Roman of Ecuador and cleared him completely of suspicion of connection with a Chicago kidnap-ing.
The court stated there never was any reason for linking up Roman with the man wanted in Chicago.

Vancouver Sheriff To Leave Service

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 26.—Notice of dismissal has been sent by the Attorney-General to Walter M. Cochrane, sheriff of the county of Vancouver for the last four years, effective Saturday at noon.
Word was received here from Victoria last week that George W. Robertson, deputy sheriff here for fourteen years, had been chosen to succeed Sheriff Cochrane, but no information was given at that time as to when the change would be made.

BRITISH PREMIER PLANNING TRIP

London Paper Says Macdonald Probably Will Visit
Newfoundland

London, June 26.—Premier Macdonald, according to The London News-Chronicle, is likely to change his original plans for a South American cruise this summer and take a holiday in Newfoundland. The newspaper said the Premier is "very anxious" to visit Newfoundland.
Mr. MacDonald's physicians, when he recommended last week that he take a prolonged holiday from his official duties to regain his strength, urged the Premier to take a boat trip up the Amazon River in Brazil.
The News-Chronicle said this trip would be abandoned in favor of Newfoundland.

TELEPHONE PRICES HIGH IN MUKDEN

Mukden, Manchuria, June 26.— Telephones are so scarce and hard to get in Mukden, because of the boom growth of the city, that fabulous prices are being paid for telephones being relinquished by established subscribers.
A Japanese building contractor has just paid the record price for a telephone connection—1,250 yen. This is equal to nearly $400 in Canadian money at the present rate of exchange between the yen and the dollar.
The highest previous price paid was 1,150 yen, and the lowest price during the last sixteen months was 1,000 yen.
Equipment has been ordered for a great extension of telephone service.

Hungarians Protest Speech By Barthou

Canadian Press and Associated Press Budapest, Hungary, June 26.—In protest against a speech at Burchard-est last week, in which Louis Bar-thou, French Foreign Minister, pledged his country's aid in case Roumania's frontiers should be attacked, students gathered here yesterday evening and burned the statesman in effigy. Following the demonstration, the students moved toward the French embassy, and police detachments were called out to halt them.
Police organized special units to protect the French Foreign Minister when he passed through here Wednesday, continuing his Balkan tour.

PROSPECTING FOR NICKEL

Helingsfors, Finland, June 26 (Canadian Press).—The Finnish government yesterday granted the Mond Nickel Company the sole right to prospect for nickel at Petsamo, in Northern Finland. The company undertakes to begin exploitation before the end of next May, and to pay lish at U.B.C. Dies in Italy

Canadian Press
Montreal, June 26.—Francis Cox
Walker, M.A., Ph.D., professor of English at the University of British Columbia and the educationalist known from Nova Scotia to the Pacific Coast, died at Florence, Italy, his brother-in-law, Thomas D. Lord of Montreal, was in-sixty-one years of age.

Brunswick as Bachelor of Arts, took the degree of Master of Arts and later earned the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Harvard University.
He taught for some time at Upper Canada College, Toronto, and was later appointed professor of English at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.
Dr. Walker served overseas during the Great War and on his return was appointed Associate Professor of English at the University of British Columbia, which post he held when he left for a holiday in Europe.

THREE SLAIN; SEVEN HELD

Associated Press
McAlester, Okla., June 26.—Seven persons are being held for investigation in the mysterious slaying of three Canadian prospector, highway workers, whose bodies were found yesterday evening in the hill country twenty-eight miles northeast of here.
Two days and nights they had disappeared from their homes.
Near where the bodies of Homer
Beasley, Hobart Watkins and Bill Gardner were discovered a scribbled scatological accusation on the back of a campaign card.
It read: "Jack Rackley, Bill Moore and George Baker killed Homer Beasley and Hobart Watkins and Bill Gardner and made me." Police thought Gann was the writer.
The three men named, also of Canadian, were arrested along with the wives of Moore and Baker, and names were withheld were arrested.

NEW ROADS IN JEHOI PROVINCE

Canadian Press
Mukden, Manchuria, June 26.—The opening of Jehoi Province, since it was conquered by Japanese troops fifteen months ago, and then an-nexed to the new state of Man-chukuo, has been phenomenal. Many automobile highways have been constructed, and railways are being extended through the mountainous province.
Sixteen months ago there was not a single motor bus line operating in Jehoi Province, which is about 85,000 square miles in extent. To-day forty-four motor buses are operating on nine different routes, and thirty-two motor trucks carry freight on scheduled runs. Under these conditions Jehoi is ceasing to be classed with Tibet as one of the "mystery provinces of China."

Reading Defends Versailles Treaty

Canadian Press from Havas
London, June 26.—Lord Reading, former Foreign Secretary, defended the Treaty of Versailles in an address here yesterday, and said Europe's present problems could be traced to other causes.
"Europe has been unable to forget," Lord Reading said, "that warlike and military methods have been termed a tradition in Prussia in the past, and that in the days before he assumed power, Herr Hitler himself declared the aim in education was the production of a German who could be converted by the minimum of training into a soldier, and that the education of the whole youth of Germany is being given definitely military training."
"In such an atmosphere it has not been easy to obtain disarmament."

Dr. F. C. Walker's Death Regretted

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 26.—Expressions of keen regret on learning of the death in Florence, Italy, of Dr. Francis Cox Walker, associate professor of English at the University of British Columbia, were voiced here to-day by faculty members and students alike.
Dr. L. S. Klink, president of the university, declared news of Dr.
Walker's passing came as a severe shock. "He was a very successful teacher and was held in high regard by his associates as well as his students," declared Dr. Klink.
Although a serious minded man,
Dr. Walker, a native of Saint John, N.B., was noted for his sense of humor and ability of easing tense situations in the lecture hall or faculty meetings.
Dr. Walker had been a close student of English and was a noted authority on English literature.

council tabled yesterday in the House of Commons authorizes a Dominion loan of $1,300,000 to the city of Winnipeg for relief expenditures on the security of one-year treasury bills of the province of Manitoba, bearing interest at 5 per cent. The loan was granted by the Dominion to the province expressly for the city of Winnipeg on representation by the province that it was unable to come to the city's financial assistance.

PIER ISLAND COSTS REPORTED

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 26.—It costs approximately $170,000 a year to confine the Doughboy prisoners serving time for parading in the nude in a special penitentiary on Pier Island, B.C. Hon.
Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, told the House of Commons yesterday evening. All clauses in the 1932-33 was $170,783, and in 1933-34, $170,461. About 507 prisoners are now on the island.

INCOME TAX

Ottawa, June 26 (Canadian Press).
Provision for the collection of 5 per cent income tax from private trusts set up in Canada for the benefit of non-residents was placed in the amendments to the Income Tax Act which were finally passed through the House of Commons yesterday evening. All clauses in the income tax measure had been passed previously, but some question arose over the taxation of these private trusts.

NAMES GIVEN AT INQUIRY

Further Details of Quebec Clothing Industry Made Public at Ottawa

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 26.—Revelation of the names of eight shoe manufacturers, eleven clothing contractors and sixteen clothing manufacturers investigated, chiefly in Quebec province, was made by the parliamentary price spreads committee yesterday.
Withheld at lively sittings of the inquiry last week, a report of government auditors now issued reveals the result of their investigation, finding sweatshop labor and breaches of the minimum wage law prevailing in some of the investigated firms.
An examination of the books of the Cooper Clothing Company and S.
Romig and Sons Limited, showed the cheapest line of garments being let out on contract to B. Blumenthal.
Blumenthal contracts over a wide area, delivering materials cut ready for making to manufacturers and in some cases using sub-contractors.

WORK ON FARMS
On visiting a number of farms in the vicinity of St. Amable, St. Julie, Vercheres, St. Bruneau, Blumenthal's work was found being performed in farmhouses, other contractors being
P. L'Amoureux, M. Molo, P. Hebert and S. Busselin. The following cases were observed in the country districts visited:
1. Four women, with husbands helping at night, making men's trousers for L'Amoureux at sixty cents per dozen, out of which they were paid for thread at a cost of five cents per dozen, making net earnings of fifty-five cents per dozen. The daily output of these workers was from two and one-half to three dozen per day.
Certain districts specialize on certain garments. St. Bruneau is the center of vest manufacturing, district, pants and riding breeches are made in St. Amable and St. Julie de Vercheres; coats are made in houses in Longueuil and other country districts. Foot pedal sewing machines appear to be used exclusively, no power equipment of any kind being observed.
There appear to be a number of contractors operating near Montreal and the volume of work performed by country home work is considerable.

WILL CONTINUE WHEAT SUBSIDY

London, June 26.—The government has no intention of limiting the operation of the domestic wheat quota act and subsidy to the year 1935, said Rt. Hon. Walter Elliott,

House of Commons yesterday when asked if the government would con-

THOSE ELEVEN SHOTS

FREQUENTLY DURING THE LAST two years it has been alleged by partisans of Tim Buck, noted Canadian Communist leader, that attempts were made to kill him while he was confined in his cell during the rioting in the Kingston penitentiary. These charges were officially denied, while the general reading public was disposed to regard them as the figment of some super-heated imagination.

In the House of Commons at Ottawa yesterday Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, admitted that during the trouble in the Kingston penitentiary in October, 1932, soldiers and guards fired eleven shots into Buck's cell "to frighten him and dissuade him from inciting the inmates to further rioting."

Buck, the Minister said, was "making speeches to the prisoners from his cell and encouraging disorders." The shots were not fired at the prisoner, Mr. Guthrie explained, but into the ceiling. If anyone had wanted to kill Buck it could have been done and the fact that he was not hit by eleven shots indicated that the guards were not trying to hit him.

These are astonishing revelations, which call for a prompt and thorough investigation. No matter who or what Buck may be, the public will want to know why any shots were fired into his cell; why, if he were inciting the other prisoners to disorders—which is denied by him and his friends—it was not possible to suppress him without firing eleven shots into the small area in which he was confined. If he were violating the regulations of the institution why could not a couple of husky attendants have gone into his cell and suppressed him in the usual way? Buck and his supporters claim an attempt was made to kill him, and in all the circumstances, in the light of the admissions of the Minister of Justice, there was ample ground for their belief. It would be hard to convince anybody in a similar situation that an effort was not being made to kill him. Without the most searching inquiry it will be difficult to convince a large part of the public that the eleven shots were merely for purposes of intimidation. Why eleven, anyway, if any shots were necessary?

In a statement issued to-day the secretary of the Labor Defence League says that the judge who tried the prisoners of the Kingston penitentiary on the charges of rioting found that not only had Buck not incited the prisoners to disorder but he should be commended for his efforts to prevent trouble. This is in direct conflict with the statement of the Minister of Justice that eleven shots were fired into Buck's cell "to frighten him and dissuade him from inciting the inmates to further rioting."

HARRY SIFTON

THE DEATH OF MR. HARRY SIFTON in Toronto on Monday night will be poignantly deplored by a large number of friends throughout Canada to whom he endeared himself by his many fine attributes of mind and heart. The third son of Sir Clifford Sifton, who was an outstanding member of the ministry of Sir Wilfrid Laurier for nearly ten years and one of the ablest administrators Canada has produced, nephew of the Hon. Arthur Sifton also an exceptionally able and successful public man, Harry Sifton had a background which, combined with his own admirable qualities, would have made him an important factor in the public life of the country if he had cherished any political ambition.

Many opportunities for advancement in that direction came to Harry Sifton both in Ottawa and Toronto, but, saving one adventure in a federal election, he preferred to remain in private life and through the important newspapers controlled by himself and his brothers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan help to promote such causes as, in his judgment, would inure to the best interests of the country. He was a staunch Liberal in political faith, his Liberalism being based upon spacious ideals and principles, and he never hesitated to criticize his own party when he considered its policies to be in conflict with his own lofty conception of what it should stand for. He was a man of unusual personal charm, intensely interested in the human factors of life and few people not actively in public affairs had a wider acquaintance throughout the Dominion. He will be remembered in innumerable quarters for his peculiarly winning personality, his arresting capacity for friendship and the spirit of affectionate goodwill which radiated from him wherever he went.

THE HAPPY GARDENERS

"LOW AND TERRY" IS BEING CALLED one of the merriest books to be produced in Great Britain this season. Low is the famous cartoonist and Terry is a Mr. Horace Thoroughgood. There is a happy combination, for while Low's illustrations tell their own story, Terry's comments, helped by the pictures, "would also gain approval on their merit." Here is Terry on gardening:

"The first thing we did was to get a seed catalogue, because we held that a man can not get properly fond of his garden unless he sows it himself and knows all about the plants from pre-natal stage."

"In the summer-time Low and I can walk about in our garden remembering every plant when it was a seed. We can recall its adventures with slugs, worms, sparrows, centipedes, leather-jackets and other infantile perils, and after that the difficult period of adolescence when it experienced its first bee and love seemed all in all, followed by ripe maturity when it had little seeds of its own."

"It's a fine thing to be able to rear a sunflower taller than yourself and look up into its face and say to it: 'Sunny boy, I knew you when you were a little nipper lying in the palm of my hand, no bigger than an orange-pipp!'"

"Our method of choosing the seeds to put in was the simple one that we always follow. We drew up a careful list compiled from the illustrated catalogue, and then we took it round to our local seedsmen and bought what he happened to have left, which is the easiest course and saves toiling into the West End again to find the shop where we bought the catalogue.

"Besides, one flower is just as good as another to the true flower-lover, and so long as something comes up it doesn't really matter to us what we put in. Also, there's the excitement through not having any reliable record of the seeds sown and consequently not being sure what to expect."

FLYING THE FLAG

THE WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUB OF Vancouver has asked the people of that city to "make Dominion Day Flag Day." The appeal calls upon both residential and business sections to fly the Canadian ensign or the Union Jack.

Special merit lies in this appeal for the reason that once again the fact is emphasized that Canada has no flag of her own. She must fly the ensign which is the symbol of the Merchant Marine, which has no authoritative status.

Now that the women have seized the idea of flying the flag on Dominion Day it may be that, eventually, the tenderest politicians on this issue will take courage and discuss in Parliament the proposal for the senior Dominion, next to Great Britain, to get a flag of its own.

Australia, New Zealand, the Union of South Africa, and the Irish Free State have their own flags. This country has a population of ten and a half millions and has to fly the Merchant Marine ensign or Britain's Union Jack.

It would be a good idea if the Canadian Clubs, men's and women's, would get together and ask Parliament to make designs for a distinctive emblem for this Dominion.

THE WEST COAST ROAD

THE CITY COUNCIL IS TO BE COM- mended for its decision to ask the government to finish the West Coast Road. This work was begun by a former Liberal administration and if the late government had gone on with it, economic conditions in the southeast part of Vancouver Island would have been a great deal better now than they are.

We may take it for granted that Premier Pattullo and his colleagues will give sympathetic consideration to the council's resolution. Not only would the completion of this highway be an excellent investment for the Island as a whole, from the commercial and the tourist points of view, but it also would be good business because it would absorb much of the unskilled labor which is now idle, besides opening up a part of the Island rich in natural resources.

NAZI NEWSPAPER RESTRICTIONS

HOW AN ACCREDITED FOREIGN newspaper correspondent should behave while in Germany has been disclosed by the head of the foreign section of the Nazi press department, Dr. Hanfstaengl, who calls such correspondents guests of Germany with special privileges that demand reporters upon political events to be "scrupulously conscientious."

This Nazi official takes a hypothetical dinner party as the medium for outlining his "instructions." What would he say, he asks, if the guest abused his host's hospitality by going all through the rooms of the house, "sniffing round, opening drawers, reading letters, and picking up servants' gossip?" Dr. Hanfstaengl alleges that behaviour of this kind had been indulged in by two London newspaper correspondents recently expelled from Germany. He also charges them with espionage and says if they wanted to discover military or other state secrets they should come to Germany as spies and not as accredited foreign correspondents.

Dr. Hanfstaengl then rather excels himself with the suggestion that an international agreement should be concluded establishing the privileges and the duties of accredited foreign correspondents. This would appear to be a gentle hint, if it means anything at all, that the authorities at Berlin are about to put further restrictions on foreign newspaper correspondents assigned to Germany. For it is hardly likely that the Canadian or British government, for example, feels any need for such a convention.

The Hanfstaengl pronouncement, of course, is another form of intimation that events are occurring in Germany about which Germany does not want the rest of the world to know.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

JURIES ON TRIAL
The Brantford Expositor

It is not too much to say that trial by jury does not inspire the same confidence in Ontario to-day as it did in former times. This is proved by the large number of appeals which are made wherever it is possible. It would be exceedingly regrettable if disrespect for the majesty of the law should become prevalent. If there is failure in one respect it will spread to others, and a demand will arise for a change in the system. If the public ever lose confidence in the integrity and impartiality of juries it will be a serious blow to the successful administration of justice. Conditions that give rise to comments like those made by Judge O'Connell should occasion some searching of heart.

COMMONSENSE AND LOGIC
The Legionary

One gratifying and steady feature of the panic which embroiled the North American Continent over a year ago was the calmness and dignity with which the Canadian people took it on the chin and carried on. The common sense of the Anglo-Saxon, allied to the cold logic of the Gaul, is the combination that operates in this Dominion. Canada is given to neither great waves of impassioned and uncontrollable enthusiasm nor to the inertia of mass despondency. That spirit is our heritage from the Mother Country.

A THOUGHT

And thou shalt not glean thy vineyard, neither shalt thou gather every grape of thy vineyard; thou shalt leave them for the poor and stranger: I am the Lord thy God—Leviticus xix 10.

Loose Ends

Another great scoop for this column—a story the papers did not dare to print—a tremor in the good earth of Canada—a scandal in our politics—a generous public—and a scientific failure.

By H.B.W.

SCOOP

AS A TRUSTED public adviser, and as the only department in any newspaper in America, which is likely to give you such painful and distressing information, this column feels called upon to inform you of certain painful facts. You won't believe them, of course, but time will prove their accuracy. The painful facts, as usual, are that the longest day of the year has passed, the days are beginning to get shorter, the first half of 1934 is practically over, and shortly we shall be on the way to Christmas.

No other authority would let you know about this important matter. Governments, courts, universities, newspapers and all the other departments of our social system have long been combined in a conspiracy to keep these things from you, and usually with complete success. Not one man in a million realizes to-day that he is about to enter the second half of a year. Vaguely he has the notion that 1934 has just got well started, that most of it lies ahead, that there is plenty of time to do all those things that he has been planning. Why, most people have just begun to get used to writing 1934 instead of 1933 on their cheques.

Well, it hurts me to tell you, as it hurts me every year, and no doubt will hurt me again in 1935, but this distressing duty must be performed. It must be revealed at last that we are on the eve of midsummer, that before you can turn around, it will be autumn, and Christmas, like something else whose name escapes me for the moment, is just around the corner. All this scientific data, which was costly to assemble and very uncomfortable to impart, is supplied to you free by this column. But you'd better hurry.

EARTH TREMORS

ALREADY, ACCORDING to the political correspondents, the good earth of Canada is trembling from the upheaval now in progress far down below, in its uttermost depths. You can hear the faint creak and groan of its movement. You can hear a certain rustle in the breezes. If you know your Canadian politics, you can tell that the next federal election campaign, whatever may be the date of the election, already is under way.

Yes, in the great country ridings, which are the backbone of Canadian politics, observers, scouts and organizers are moving about, casually, talking about the fishing and crops, but talking surreptitiously to the Right One in many a smoke-filled country hotel bedroom.

Old campaigners, who know the game, are getting ready for nominating conventions by accidental conversations with Key Men who will handle the delegates.

"Look here, Ed," one says to a Key Man, for nearly all Key Men are called Ed, generally amoké cigars, when you buy them and seldom wear a vest. "Look here, Ed," one says to a Key Man, talking out of the side of one's mouth and making sure that no one else in the beer parlor is looking, "look here, Ed, you'll be coming to the nominating convention, of course. You'll have some traveling expenses, Ed, so here's ten to pay your way. I'm a bit short now, Ed, but after the convention I'll probably be able to let you have another ten or so." And Ed takes the ten without blinking an eye and thrusts it into his pocket so fast that the eye cannot follow the movement, and nods his head and says never a word. But Ed knows that there will be no second ten if the convention fails to select the right man.

EXPENSIVE

THAT IS THE WAY conventions are organized in the great open spaces, though nothing of the sort ever occurs anywhere else, of course. And apart from that, the ordinary expenses of a campaign are enormous in these places. In a big constituency a candidate may hold a hundred meetings. With the rent of the hall—which miraculously doubles when it is for political purposes—and the printing of posters—the price of which goes up proportionately, since everybody knows everyone—and incidental expenses, every meeting will cost $35 at the very least. There is $25,000. And to get around, the candidate must spend appalling sums in traveling expenses. You can't motor about the country on less than $10 a day. By the time you have paid a few fellows to help you, quite legitimately, you can run away with $5,000 or $6,000 and hardly know where it went to.

The public will be shocked, as usual, to know that you spent anything. The public has a notion that if you were really honest, your campaign shouldn't cost a cent. The public feels that by some magical process, all the excitement and pleasure of an election campaign should be provided without expense to anyone, as part of the inestimable boon of democracy. Consequently, the public never contributes to the cost.

If political parties had to depend on public contributions on the interest of the electors in their own affairs, there would be no campaigns at all. There would be no excitement, no pleasurable thrill, and no intelligent discussion of public issues.

The public is horrified to find that the expenses are paid by some Big Fellows, brewers, contractors, hydro-electric promoters or others whose patriotism is so unlimited that they will spend almost anything to facilitate the process of democracy; and invariably get back at least ten times what they contributed. True Christians, they are always willing to cast their bread upon the stormy water of politics, knowing that, after many days, it will come back to them, with jam on it.

THE JOKE

BUT THE JOKE of it is that the public, which refuses to finance political campaigns, which feels that all election expenses are dishonest and immoral, will pay for the jam. It always has.

If the Bennett Government, as its last contribution to our civilization, would put a bill through Parliament providing for the payment of all election expenses out of the public purse, like any other necessary expenditures of a democratic government, it would not be re-elected, but it would be remembered, at least by me, and that should be compensation enough for its defeat. Besides, what a saving that would be for a fellow like Mr. Bennett, who put up three-quarters of a million last time and in return got nothing but the misery of the premiership out of it!

NO TEA

THERE WAS NO TEA at our cabin on the lake last night. It was all the fault of the putt-putt boat, for which we had entertained such high hopes. All you have to do with the putt-putt boat, said the man in the shop, is to light a candle somewhere in its interior, fill up the boiler, and steam does the rest. It just putt-puts around and around for hours, at a high rate of speed.

We worked all morning over the putt-putt boat—three skilled mechanics, the little girl from next door, her brother and I. We filled a wash tub with water and staggered up from the lake with it so that the putt-putt boat should have a private sea of its own. We filled the entrails of the putt-putt boat with the eyedropper supplied for the purpose. We lighted the candle. We waited and waited and waited. But all we got was a single, pessimistic "putt" from the little boat which was guaranteed to go around and around and around.

We lighted a new candle and another and another. We waited nearly always went out. And by the time we had finished our scientific investigations there wasn't a single match left in the camp; not one to light the fire for tea. So, in the interests of science, there was no tea and the putt-putt boat floated silent on its silent sea.

The little girl from next door said she guessed she wouldn't go fishing because there would be no fire to cook the bulthead, even after she caught him. Her brother, thinking perhaps of the cherries which rested uncomfortably on his own, said he thought the putt-putt boat probably had a pain in its tummy. Anyway, I thought you should know that we went without tea, we are through with new-fangled machines altogether—and we are going back to sail boats, blown by the winds of heaven. We think this machine age is the bunk.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

YOUR FLOWERS
The flowers you bring me do not wither.
Though other blooms as sweet and gay
Which other hands have carried hither
Are faded, drooping in decay.
Those smiling flowers pass all too fleetly,
To fragrance dust their petals fall;
The fashions of them come complete,
And red or white, who can recall?
But every rose your hand has taken
Out of its home of sun and dew,
By your sweet touch is not forsaken
And holds always the thought of you.
Always the memory of you lingers
With blossoms that will never fade;
The pink that nestled in your fingers
Is deathless as thought carved in jade!

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
JUNE 26, 1909

(From The Times Files)

The new Romano Theatre, Government Street, between Yates and Johnson Streets, is now open, and has been doing a large business. Every seat has been taken at the opening performance and the new place has become popular at once.

A step taken by the streets committee last evening will render available for fire protection purposes at once the new high-pressure system of mains. An eight-inch main is to be laid from the city system at Herald and Store Streets, where it runs down to the pumping station, to connect with the salt-water system which has been installed for the protection of its property in that vicinity.

The annual athletic sports of Corrig College was held yesterday at Beacon Hill. It was the twentieth celebration since Principal Church took charge, the first occasion being in 1890.

The danger of the present position of affairs at the corner of Blinn and Russell Streets was brought home to the members of the City Council last evening when, at the streets committee, they learned that Alderman W. Mable and Fire Chief Thomas Davis had had a narrow escape from a terrible death at that point.

HILLING POTATOES

To the Editor:—Mr. Bennett's letter on "hilling" potatoes will sound quite reasonable to the man who is not too fond of work. I don't know where he got his information that it is only an important idea, but surely our forefathers have not been doing it just for pastime, and without knowing why they did it. I think he would admit that the old-fashioned idea of "hilling" was the result of expensive experience, if he had helped his father grow ten acres of potatoes every year as I did, he would find out that whether potatoes are planted shallow or deep the tubers form close to the surface and at that time need more soil moulded up round them to prevent heavy loss from sunburn, so if Mr. Bennett has any real labor saving devices on growing potatoes, bring them along. When I went to school my nickname was "Potatoes," but when the teacher called me into the back room for an interview he called me...

DOMESTIC HELP

To the Editor:—We understand the domestic help drew up a code covering wages and hours of work, at one of their recent meetings which the Trades and Labor Council are sponsoring in the interest of better pay and working hours for this class of labor.

The code was drawn up by the domestic themselves, we thought, to place before the Minister of Labor for consideration and adjustments, if any. However, from the press report giving an account of the Business and Professional Women's Club proceedings, it would seem this body of women took exception to the said code. Just why business women who drew better pay than most domestics should take exception to this code for working women who are trying for a mere working wage is difficult to understand. To say the least, it would seem a bit presumptuous, at the time when better hours of work and pay for stenographers, clerks, etc., was being agitated for, the interest of the employer was not the main consideration, nor did the employer draw up the code to cover this class of employment. One would naturally suppose domestic help know what their time is worth. It is understood the women's organizations were requested to get behind this movement for recognition by the government of this, the most abused of all female labor in B.C. or anywhere else, for that matter.

Let us hope there will be a substantial support given this humane proposal along labor lines, the most progressive yet attempted in Canada. We are sure by so doing all will receive the commendation of right-thinking people.

FAIR WAGE.

LIFEBOAT ASSOCIATION

To the Editor:—This letter is number fifteen of the series which is being issued with the authority of the directors of the Vancouver Island Lifeboat Association. The last letter contained notes on the boats from Ten-mile Point round Trial Island, Clover Point and past Victoria harbor to Esquimalt.

So far this year four boats have been seen in trouble between Ten-mile Point and the mouth of Victoria harbor. Strange to state all four were motor launches, and in each case the trouble could have been avoided with the exercise of a little foresight. In almost every case the trouble started when the boat reached rough water and the towing dislodged sediment in the gas tank which in turn clogged the feed pipe and so stopped the engine. I am told there is a proper filter for the tank end of the feed pipe, and it is so made that it can be easily cleaned which would naturally be done before making the trip round from Brentwood to Victoria harbor. With a clean gas tank, which should also be free from water, no amount of towing should cause the motor to stop. Of course the batteries should be tested before starting.

Now as to gear which common sense dictates should be carried in a motor launch: an anchor with a fathom of chain and twenty-five fathoms of rope; two large oars and two rowlocks fitted, one long boat hook; one set of navigating lights

BRIGADE FIELD DAY IS STAGED

Busy Week-end For 5th Brigade Units in Camp at Macaulay Point

The annual field day of the 5th B.C. Coast Brigade was held Sunday afternoon at the Fort Macaulay parade grounds where the brigade is now encamped. About 400 spectators witnessed the events which were preceded in the morning with a church parade and drumhead service.

Seventeen events were run off during the afternoon, and all provided plenty of keen competition. The officials were: Judges, Capt. G. Paulin, Regimental Sgt.-Major F. Dutoit, Sgt.-Major Wingate, timekeepers, B.S.M. Arthur Hodge, Sgt. A. H. Johnson, starter, P. O. McDonald; recorder, R. Love; clerk of course, Major R. E. A. Dispecker, and announcer, E. Blair.

Refreshments were served after the races.

Capt. the Rev. Alan Gardiner, chaplain of the unit, conducted the morning church service, and Major Gen. E. C. Ashton, G.O.C., M.D. 11, read the lesson. The brigade band, directed by Al Prescott, rendered the music.

On Saturday night the men were entertained at a smoking concert.

Firing to-night will bring to a close the competition of the brigade units in the Canadian Artillery Association contests. The 55th and 56th batteries are competing, and hope to maintain the record which they have made in this shoot for the last several years.

Discovery of Canada Will Be Celebrated

Civic leaders of Victoria to-day were invited to attend the fourth century celebration of the discovery of Canada by Jacques Cartier in Quebec on July 20 and 21.

The invitation was in the form of a circular letter from Joseph Ernest Oregre, mayor of the historic city. Included in the functions which will be held during the observance of the discovery of Canada will be visits to old battle fields and other historic spots in the part of Canada which still retains much of its seventeenth century French atmosphere.

Goey Duck Party Make Big Catch

With the largest goey duck caught this season, Harry Barnes' yacht Minerva returned to the float of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club yesterday evening.

It was the second hunt of the season to Sidney Spit, the previous one, two weeks ago having failed to make much of a showing as far as results went. Yesterday, however, the tide was far out and the ducks spotted proved to be of mature growth.

The ducks brought home were placed in tubs of fresh water yesterday evening. This morning they were all in prime condition, having forced themselves up to their full size while emptying themselves of water.

This afternoon the ducks are in the process of being made into cream soup and chowder in homes of those participating in the hunt.

Because of the growing popularity of the sport of goey duck hunting, it is feared the government on this side of the line may at any time declare a closed season on them as the State of Washington has found it necessary to do. Recent wholesale hunting of them is said to be depleting the supply, as they are found on only a few beaches along the coast.

VARIED TOPICS FOR CONVENTION

Matters to come before the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island convention at Duncan next month were outlined to directors of the Chamber of Commerce here yesterday. Local delegates were instructed to act upon them according to the merits of the individual cases.

An inquiry into high lead logging is sought by the Nanaimo Board of Trade, which complains this method is wasteful and increases the fire hazard. The Duncan board seeks control of sporting fish in island streams and lakes by the Biological Station at Departure Bay.

Reduction of ferry-rates between Vancouver and Nanaimo, a matter which has come before the individual groups on other occasions, is sought by Nanaimo. The local-chamber's attitude on this question is to move for a general reduction of all ferry rates to the island.

CONSIDERING WORK IN CITY

Canadian Pacific Heads Asked to Have Liners Overhauled in Coast Ports

Overhauling of Canadian Pacific Steamships Ltd. liners plying between the Pacific Coast and the Orient on Pacific ports and particularly in Victoria, is being considered by heads of the company following communication with Capt. Edward Alkman, superintendent for Vancouver, it was reported to the Chamber of Commerce directors at their luncheon yesterday.

Harold Husband, who has had the matter in hand for the directors, reported progress stating he had seen Capt. Alkman, who had taken it up with superiors in Montreal and London.

The inquiry was started as a result of a move to have the work done here rather than in Orient ports.

WOULD RESCIND OPTION RIGHTS

Campbell River Trade Board Urges Government Break B.C. Electric Agreement

A protest from the Campbell River Board of Trade against the government extension of time granted the Vancouver Island Power Company for the development of power at Campbell River, which will be brought before the Associated Boards of Trade convention at Duncan next month, failed to receive support from directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their luncheon yesterday.

The letter was received and filed. J. O. Cameron was of the opinion that the local direction should oppose the island extension since there was no demand for power at the present time and no purpose in developing the property merely to have the first opportunity of developing it in event of the need being created. This privilege was due the company because of the investment already made in the vicinity in surveys, he felt.

Under the present agreement between the government and the company the company holds the option until September of next year. The Campbell River board asked that these rights be rescinded.

RELIEF OUTLAY IN ESQUIMALT

For the period ended June 30, the 1934 relief expenditure in Esquimalt totaled $3,407.18, which, minus the two-thirds labor costs borne by the government, amounted to an outlay by the municipality of $1,708.48, according to the municipal engineer's report submitted to Esquimalt councillors at yesterday evening's meeting.

Of the total sum, married men received $3,107.25 for their labor, and single men $440.80, while $659.13 was spent on materials, trucks, etc.

The engineer's report on the public works department showed an expenditure from January 1 to May 31, of $5,095.03. The estimate for the whole year is $16,170.20. When several small assets are taken into consideration, the balance in hand is $11,200.06.

RELIEVED OF ASSESSMENT

Pandora Residents Win Improvement Appeal; Street to Be Oak Bay Avenue

Residents of Pandora Avenue between Port Street and the Port Bay Road, will be relieved of the necessity of paying a $4,000 assessment against them in improvement taxes, a communication from the city's local improvement commission, read at the City Council meeting yesterday evening, revealed.

They will also have the name of the road restored to Oak Bay Avenue, the result of a recommendation made by the commission, composed of James Forman, F. A. Pauline and A. H. Wolfenden, and endorsed by the council.

The commission stated after hearing testimony the residents were justified in seeking release from unpaid improvement assessments from 1924 to 1928 inclusive on that part of the street. The amount will be spread over the general public for collection. It further recommended credit be given to those who had met these levies in advance from January 1 this year.

After approving the findings of the commission, the council instructed the clerk to notify the city controller and treasurer to act along the lines suggested by the inquiry.

PAINT MAKING IS DISCUSSED

Gyros Hear of Chemical Side of Industry From Angus McIntyre, Local Analyst

The laboratory of the British-American Paint Company here is the only paint laboratory in Canada east of Toronto and the only one on the Pacific Coast north of San Francisco, Angus G. McIntyre, analytical chemist in the local laboratory, told the Gyro Club at its luncheon yesterday.

Gum, oil and turpentine went into the making of varnish, said Mr. McIntyre in his talk on "The Science of Paint Making." The gum gave hardness, gloss and sometimes durability to the compound, the oil gave toughness and durability, while the turpentine was used as a thinning agent and subsequently evaporated, so that no residue appeared in the final product.

The oil used to the largest extent in making varnish to-day was China wood oil, which was more waterproof than the previously used linseed oil, the speaker stated.

The discovery of the new nitro-cellulose lacquer by paint chemists had been a great boon to the automobile industry, according to Mr. McIntyre. Before it was brought into use, the slowness of the auto lacquer to dry had tied up the manufacturer's production line, but the new product dried four times as fast.

The reason shellac, in contrast to other paint products, was put in glass containers rather than in tin cans was that the shellac readily absorbed moisture from the air, which turned black, Mr. McIntyre said.

The scales used by the British-American Paint chemists were so fine that the difference in weight caused by writing with a lead pencil on a small piece of paper could be recorded, the speaker continued. Certain formulas of the company were used here were used by a big San Francisco company which had thirty chemists of its own, and royalties were paid for them.

Mr. McIntyre brought along several panels and pieces of wood which had been immersed in the sea to illustrate his remarks about the properties of different paints.

It was announced that there will be no luncheon meeting of the club next Monday because of the holiday. The members learned that the Service Club Council is considering a joint picnic to be held either on Wednesday or a Saturday.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

A BOLT OF LIGHTNING IS ONE MILE AWAY FOR EACH FIVE SECONDS THAT ELAPSE BETWEEN THE FLASH AND THE CRASH OF THUNDER THAT FOLLOWS.

THE MERIDIANS OF THE EARTH CONVERGE AT THE NORTH AND SOUTH POLES; THEREFORE, AN AIRPLANE CIRCLING THE POLES CAN FLY FROM TODAY INTO TOMORROW OR BACK INTO YESTERDAY, ALL WITHIN A FEW MINUTES.

IN FRANCE, IT ONCE WAS CUSTOMARY TO NAIL A CAT UNDERNEATH THE FLOOR OF EACH NEW HOUSE, FOR GOOD LUCK.

IN REALITY, the crash of thunder occurs immediately after the discharge of electricity in the lightning flash, but sound travels so slowly, compared to light, that we may not hear the thunder for a minute after the flash, if the lightning is far off.

Esquimalt Votes Contributions

The sum of $25 was granted to Sunshine Camp by the Esquimalt Council at its meeting yesterday evening, on receipt of a letter from the Friendly Help Welfare Association asking for a contribution. An invitation was also accepted to attend the opening of the camp at 3:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

A letter was received from the Salvation Army requesting $50 as a contribution. A sum of $25 was granted. Councilor Albert Beal, in moving both contributions, pointed out that Esquimalt people benefited from Sunshine Camp and the Salvation Army.

HOIST BOARD MOVE AGAIN

Firemen's Application For Conciliation Body Back Where It Started

Aldermen of Victoria took another fling at the roundabout they call the difference-of-opinion over the legality of a conciliation board for petitioning firemen at their meeting yesterday evening. And when they had finished whirling around so they almost all were confused on the issue, they got off at the point they started.

The possible appointment of a board was as indefinite at the close of the three-quarter hour discussion as when it started, with the council voting in favor of filing a repeated request from the firemen asking for the establishment of a conciliation board and holding in abeyance a tabled move for the appointment of a board of inquiry. Should F. E. Harrison, representative of the Federal Department of Labor, give legal advice to the council that it may hold a conciliation board, the majority of members will vote for it. But if the stand of the city's legal counsel, to the effect that such an appointment is illegal, is upheld, a board of inquiry will be set up in its place.

In the letter to the council yesterday evening, the firemen declined a board of inquiry on the grounds it would be a council appointed body and might be biased in favor of the council.

BANDS NAMED FOR CONCERTS

Three bands and an orchestra will furnish music in city parks this year, it was announced in a report of the parks committee, named by the City Council yesterday evening.

During the summer the Fifth Brigade and Canadian Scottish bands will each present four concerts, while William Tickle's orchestra will provide two.

In addition the Shrine Band will be heard in a programme to-morrow and probably later in the season.

CCF PICNIC NEXT MONDAY

A programme including sports and entertainment of a varied nature has been arranged for the C.C.F. picnic to be held at the Willows Park and Beach next Monday. An executive committee of the federation has had the arrangements in hand and the complete day's schedule has been well organized.

Tea, coffee, milk and sugar will be supplied on the grounds and all baskets of food will be pooled for distribution by the refreshment committee. Refreshments will be served free for the children and prizes will be awarded for winners of the sports events.

Bill Hanson's concert party will entertain for about two hours and community singing will follow, accompanied by a piano accompanist. The day will round up with a dance, with music supplied by the C.C.F. dance orchestra.

The following programme of sports will be staged, starting at 1 o'clock: Boys' and Girls' races, under 4 years, under 7 years, under 10 years, under 14 years and under 18 years. 100 yard open race, three-legged race, wheelbarrow, marked women's race, egg and spoon race, shoe race, fat man's race, over 100 pounds; novelty race and hurdle jump.

IMMIGRATION IS ADVOCATED

Would Have Immediate Effect of Creating Work, Claims Writer

Resumption of British immigration which he claims would result in immediate productive employment for Canadians, is advocated by Brigadier-General L. M. Murphy of Lethbridge, Alta., in a circular letter which he has forwarded to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and which he is circulating among labor organizations, boards of trade and business men generally throughout the Dominion.

"Every immigrant who enters Canada, backed by sufficient financial support to become established in a self-supporting home on the land, is actually an employer of labor on a considerable scale for the first year or two years after his entry into Canada," General Murphy claims. "A house must be built or reconditioned for him, with a barn and other necessary farm buildings; the lumber, the bricks, the cement, the hardware, and all the other materials required for this work are produced in Canada by Canadian labor, and it is Canadian labor that carries out the work of construction; the fencing required for his farm is constructed of material produced by Canadian labor; the farm machinery and all the equipment, and implements which he requires are produced in Canadian factories by Canadian workers; the foundation livestock necessary to give him a start in farming is raised by Canadian farmers and has to be purchased from them; the warm clothing which he requires for his first winter is manufactured in Canadian factories by Canadian labor, and the groceries which he requires are Canadian products."

"There can be no doubt that organized and properly financed new immigration and land settlement will immediately and directly alleviate present unemployment in Canada very considerably. It will also create at once, on the part of the re-employed workers, a demand for manufactured goods, which again will lead to further re-employment of industrial workers, and also for farm products such as meat, milk, butter, eggs, etc., which cannot but benefit farm workers. A further direct result will be an increase in railway freight traffic and passenger traffic, with probable resultant increases of railway employment."

"The influx of new immigrants, under a plan of organized immigration, and their establishment on the land under a fully financed plan of land settlement, will continue for many years, providing large numbers of Canadian workers with steady employment. Let us remember that Canada, in the past, has been developed largely by British immigration and British capital. If she so desires, she may again move forward by the same means to employment, better business and prosperity."

Nanaimo

A "vacation school" will again be conducted this year under the auspices of the First United Sunday School, from July 9 to 20, with Miss Louise Jessop in charge. The purpose of the school is to provide character building activities under Christian influences for children during the summer vacation, training them in the constructive use of leisure.

A delightful shower was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Good on Friday evening, complimenting Miss Olive Odgers. The rooms were decorated with streamers of pastel yellow, green and white, and a profusion of sweet peas. The guest of honor was presented with numerous gifts by two little girls, Joselyn Harris and Naomi Coburn, gowned in dainty frocks of yellow and green. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. C. Mills, Miss L. Fairhurst, Miss D. Odgers and Miss M. Odgers.

Further consideration was given the Streets and Traffic Regulation by-law at yesterday evening's meeting of the Esquimalt Council.

Women Urged to Fight Subversive Influences

Archbishop Duke Warns Catholic League of Militant Atheism Perils

President's Address Touches on "Soul-destroying" Films; Other Speakers

Militant atheism, as expressed in "the press, over the radio and in some of our schools and universities and immoral and gangster films, with their soul-destroying perils to children," was condemned as subversive of the tenets of the Christian faith, and Catholic women were urged to unite in combating these evil influences at the opening session of the Catholic Women's League convention yesterday evening at the Empress Hotel.

This challenge to the women was thrown out by the Most Rev. W. M. Duke, D.D., Archbishop of Vancouver, in his address of welcome to the delegates and in the annual address of Mrs. J. C. Keenan of Toronto, national president, read in her absence by Mrs. J. Coffey of Montreal, national vice-president. Miss Harriet O'Brien acted as chairman and graciously welcomed the delegates and the distinguished visitors present.

ARCHBISHOP'S GREETINGS

The archbishop, on behalf of the Catholic people of British Columbia, welcomed the delegates and spoke of the honor conferred upon the Coast in having the convention here. "The league represents the best of our womanhood, who are banded together for common ideal of service in the cause of humanity and in the best interests of Canada," said His Excellency.

"The greatest gift we have to enjoy is Christian faith. There can be no gift more valuable than this—it is necessary for our happiness in this life and even more necessary for our eternal happiness in Heaven," he continued as he enumerated the various beliefs essential to the fullest living of the Christian life. "But faith without good works is dead," said His Excellency as he reminded the audience that one of the great tasks facing them was the upholding of the fundamental tenets of Christianity, which were so often being attacked and denied in these days of disbelief. Militant atheism, as often expressed in "the press, over the radio, and in some of our schools and universities," must be combatted and defeated by the efforts of the Catholic Women's League and similar organizations, the archbishop urged.

One of the great services which such a nation-wide organization as the Catholic Women's League could give was the lending of its influence to the defeat of these destructive energies which were working to the injury of Christian faith.

Distribution of immoral and gangster films was characterized as a soul-destroying peril to children by Mrs. J. C. Keenan of Toronto, president of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, in her address read by Mrs. Coffey.

Mrs. Keenan declared indecency and obscenity in moving pictures would be eliminated if women stood unitedly on the issue. Catholic Women must rouse themselves to combat the menace of "its wicked shadow on our doorstep," the residential address said.

The president was unable to attend the convention on account of illness. Her address was read by Mrs. J. Coffey of Montreal, the vice-president.

TO STRENGTHEN ACTION

A resolution had been passed at the last annual convention at Quebec recommending the affiliation of all Catholic women's organizations with the league for the strengthening of Catholic action and making audible the Catholic voice when speaking on moral issues involving the doctrine of the church, said Mrs. Keenan. Considerable had been accomplished in this direction all over Canada. "Women's part in the reconstruction programme of the world is to make it a cleaner, better place in which to live and each one of us has a definite place in that programme," the president said.

Appropriately, Mrs. Keenan appealed to all delegates to carry home as a message from the convention the importance, where women are concerned, of seeing that their names are on the voters' lists.

"We are not in politics," she said, "but we are all citizens and, as such, have full responsibility for the matter of good or bad government. By our lack of interest or indifference to the franchise we must assume public blame for social injustice, economic burdens, or public morals and laws that menace the sanctity of the home or the rights of individuals."

MANY NEW BRANCHES

An achievement of which the league might be justly proud, said Mrs. Keenan, was that of the Ontario committee working in support of the province to secure an adjustment of their taxes for the support of the separate schools. Through the action of this committee, resolutions bearing 40,000 signatures were sent to Premier George S. Henry of Ontario, to emphasize that "Catholic people were in earnest in asking for their rights."

Contrary to what I had expected, Dr. Thom explains that these are the various kinds of failure in the older child to cope with the high order of study expected of him. I had in mind the conflicts arising from trying to find the newer and broader vision in education to-day to narrow home tradition. Hever ideas of religion, government and so on, which I do think cause much perplexity—learning one way of looking at things at home, and another at school. Who is right, the child wants to know.

But Dr. Thom bears harder on the other trouble, the fact that many children who do well in lower grade work find themselves up against a real impasse in high school, while parents attribute this failure to laziness or indifference.

REASONS FOR FAILURE

To go over some of the pertinent points, he explains the various reasons of failure.

First, some children are physically incapable of applying themselves to school work more than five or six hours a day, while others can concentrate on lessons for ten or even twelve hours a day without fatigue, I am not quoting directly, but paraphrasing his ideas.

Second, very many children find themselves pushed along, and when they enter high school have no real preparation for meeting their tasks. I think this is very important. Not only is there too little foundation

Tea will be served in the dining-room, the games and stalla being placed about the grounds. Mrs. John Hart, three to four-thirty. Mrs. John Hart, Mrs. H. MacEadie, Mrs. E. E. Wootton and Mrs. J. A. for the sudden jump into scholastic work, but the habit of concentration has never been acquired.

The third point I have left until last because I believe, it to be the most important—mental immaturity. Dr. Thom stresses the point.

Authorities on mental calibre agree that comparatively few adults have fairly adult minds, meaning that perfect development up to the chosen unit of standard is not always reached. It would take a long list of tables to explain this, but suffice it to say that each one of us has our "mental age."

Some even go beyond accepted standard, but many stay below. This does not mean that these latter are morons or odd or abnormal in any way. Often the reverse. Intelligence is a matter of width rather than height and the genius in one line may be stupid in another.

SHOW MENTAL GROWTH

Some children, too, delay mental completion until they are older. This is why I like the idea of a year or two of work before college. Mental immaturity is no equipment for higher study.

At this time of year parents may do well to consider some of these things. If a boy or girl—has had a struggle to figure out the trouble and correct it. Perhaps there is work he or she has missed, work that will be necessary before they can go on successfully. It can be obtained in re-taking the last year's work altogether. Almost anything is better than another "pitfall."

BURDENING A CHILD BEYOND HIS MENTAL CAPACITY INTERFERES WITH LEARNING

Dance at Lake Hill—On Saturday evening another exceptionally large crowd attended the regular old-time dance at Lake Hill, close to 200 enjoying the music and dancing of the old-time dances to the good old-time tunes. During an intermission in the dance programme, Frank Merryfield, who is staging a big two-hour show at the Centre next Friday in aid of the gymnasium fund, gave a number of conjuring tricks that were much enjoyed. "This week will be a busy one at the Centre, with a popular young people's dance on Wednesday, followed by Merryfield's show of magic on Friday and winding up with the old-time dance on Saturday."

The second of the summer series of dances will be held next Saturday evening in Lutton Hall, arrangements being in the hands of the Lutton Hall Committee. Next Saturday will be ladies night, and prizes will be awarded for waltz and spot dances. Seabrooke's orchestra will play.

Donna of the Big Top

by BEULAH POYNTER

CHAPTER XX

Donna's wedding day! The sun shone in an almost cloudless sky. The air was crisp and cool after several sultry weeks. A robin, singing in a catalpa tree outside her bedroom window, awakened Donna and she stretched lazily, then lay in a drowsy, pleasant half-droop letting her thoughts wander over all that had taken place that summer and considering the rosy future ahead.

She was glad that she had not told Bill anything about how she and Madeline had exchanged identities. There would be nothing now to mar the beauty of her wedding day. Come what would afterward, to-day she and Bill would be blissfully happy. Happier far, Donna felt, than she or anyone else deserved to be.

She looked at the clock on her dressing table and was amazed to find that it was after 9.30. How had she ever come to sleep so late? What consideration had prompted Mrs. Planter not to call her?

Of course she had lain awake very late the night before. Earlier in the evening she and Bill had sat on the river bank, their hands interlocked, until the dew had made shoes and clothing dank and uncomfortable. Then, under a brilliant moon, they had strolled slowly back to the house. There they had clung together in a goodnight kiss that was like a farewell.

"Never again sweetheart," Bill had whispered. "This is the last time we'll ever part."

The wedding was to take place at 12 o'clock. Only Grandfather Siddal and Mrs. Morgan, the minister's wife, besides the Reverend Morgan himself were to be present. Mrs. Planter had laughed noisily when she had been informed there was to be no wedding breakfast and no guests.

"Not that I expected to be invited. My land, no! Even if I lived here for five years I ain't anything more'n a servant to Madeline. I'd like to know what Amos Siddal would have done without me while that girl was galivantin' around the world!"

Minnie Jones helped Donna dress. Shortly after Donna had eaten a breakfast consisting of little more than coffee, Minnie arrived, tearful and excited. She shampooed Donna's hair, raving over the glint of gold in the copper waves, regretted that the bride was not to wear a veil and trailing satin dress, but "reckoned" pick chignon and a white leghorn hat trimmed in wild roses were just "too sweet."

From the living-room window Mrs. Planter watched the trio depart—Grandfather in an old Prince Albert coat he insisted upon wearing (though the seams were green with age) since he had worn it at Madeline's father's wedding; Bill in a new suit of grey tweed; and Donna, looking lovelier than ever in the shell pink chignon with tiny puffed sleeves and innumerable ruffles on the skirt. The housekeeper turned away from the window, her lips set more tightly, if possible, than usual. She told Minnie to "shut-up and go on home." Then she went upstairs to the room she had occupied since coming to the farm over five years before. Her ambition to marry Amos Siddal and annex his property was dead and her heart was filled with rancor and gall.

Of course that young upstart would send her packing. She'd known all along that Madeline had no use for her. Might as well start packing now as any time.

Mrs. Planter dragged her old camel-back trunk down from the attic and took out the upper tray. The first thing she saw was the cigar box containing her most cherished possession: a lock of Nub's hair when his curls had been cut, a tintype of the late Mr. Planter, a bit of her wedding cake (a grey rock now), a sea shell picked up beside Lake Michigan the only time Mrs. Planter had ever visited Chicago, and—a rolled up, gaily-colored sheet of paper.

She took out this last and studied it, acquainting over the tops of her spectacles. She scratched her head and pursed her lips. Madeline Siddal getting married in the arena, so the advertisement said. "Mebbe she never done it," Mrs. Planter thought, "but it's mighty queer if she was going to do it that she never did! Mighty queer if it was the other girl in the act that used Madeline's name."

She felt certain that neither Bill nor Amos Siddal knew anything of the wedding described in the hand bill and equally certain that Donna would not want them to know. It was, she thought, a good thing she had kept the bill. She tucked it into the pocket of her apron and decided to wait a while before packing up to leave the farm.

Two hours later the bridal party returned. Donna was flushed and beautiful; Bill, ruddy and slightly embarrassed. The housekeeper was sitting in the hammock on the front porch, as bland and smiling as if she wished the young couple all the happiness in the world.

"I'm a husband, Mrs. Planter," Bill cried, springing up the steps. "Congratulations! I'm the happiest man in the world!" He caught her hands and swung her to her feet.

"Land sakes," she gasped. "Don't do that! Well, I hope you will always be happy, but I don't approve of cousins marryin' and I'm not going to pretend I do." She smoothed down her skirt that had swirled about her when he swung her around, and looked as flustered as the bride herself.

"That women is sheer vinegar!" Donna laughed as Mrs. Planter went into the house.

A simple mid-day dinner was served. Then Donna, whose happiness made her desire peace with all the world, offered to help Mrs. Planter in the kitchen. Always before Donna's overtures had been refused but to-day the housekeeper nodded and said she reckoned a little help might come in handy.

As usual Grandfather went to his room for a nap and Bill went off to the fields. The two women were practically alone in the house. Mrs. Planter piled the dishes in the hot, sudsy water in silence and, placed them, shining and dripping, in another pan for Donna to wipe. When the last dish and pan were dry and in the shelves Mrs. Planter drew the handkerchief from her apron and held it before Donna.

"Ever see this before?" she asked.

"What is it?"

"None of your wedding."

"So soon! How can that be?"

"Not your wedding to Bill Siddal but to some other feller." Mrs. Planter shook open the paper so that the words were easier to read.

Omar the Tentmaker knew...

OMAR certainly knew the value of publicity—wherever his poetry was quoted, people spoke of his tents. Probably they were good tents—they might have been the best procurable—it is also quite likely that people from far-off villages came to buy from him, but—it was eight hundred years before all the world knew of him and his famous pre-prohibition slogan, "A loaf of bread, a jug of—" (pardon us). Eight hundred years after he died, we are all convinced that Omar made tents—not only that, but we have heard so much about them we are convinced they must have been GOOD tents. Were they obtainable today we would probably buy one. However, poor Omar has been gone nearly nine centuries.

● HIS ADVERTISING CAME TOO LATE TO DO HIM ANY GOOD

● Isn't it the way? Merchants who have anything to sell, decide to advertise and do so indiscriminately, without enquiring into the merits or demerits of the various media—the greatest mistake a merchandiser can make—and all for the want of five minutes' reasoning—for that is enough to convince any person that the best selling media are those which reach all of the desired market all of the time—THE DAILY NEWSPAPERS.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27, 1934

Adverse planetary aspects appear to dominate to-day, according to astrology. Warning is given against the temptation to speculate, for stocks may be exceedingly active.

The planetary government favors commerce and seems to indicate an increase of exports. Much travel to foreign lands will be noted as a feature of summer vacations.

Mining is subject to a rule of the stars that seems to press litigation and trouble over titles. Many claims are likely to be "jumped" while this configuration continues.

Certain western states are to profit through the production of gold and silver. Colorado is under an aspect that appears to be promising, but better conditions will prevail next season.

Love affairs may languish to-day. The stars encourage a critical and unresponsive attitude on the part of the girls most adored. But this summer is to be a time for an epidemic of romance.

Artists are under a sway temporarily

Market Notes

The first carload of preserving apricots will reach the city on July 3. Although no definite figure can be set, it is stated that prices will be considerably lower than last year, when the crop was poor. A small shipment of ordinary apricots was received from the Okanagan yesterday.

There is a fair supply of loganberries and raspberries, although the crop, especially of the former, is not so large as had been expected, owing to the heat of the last month.

The season's first outside green beans were here this morning from Salt Spring Island.

Fresh pineapples are on the market at present in fair quantities. They are of excellent quality.

Wild blackberries were this morning on display in several retail fruit stores, at prices of 15 cents a box and two for 25 cents.

COLWOOD

Miss A. Moore of Swift Current, Sask., is spending a holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Moore.

Miss James is holidaying at Comox and other Up-Island points.

"MY FATHER ONCE KEPT KING AND QUEEN WAITING"

By ALICE HUGHES

Famous Pioneer Woman Photographer Who, During the Last Forty Years Has Probably Photographed More Famous and Royal Personages Than Any Other Living Person

(Copyright)

Queen Alexandra paid me a great compliment. She came to me to be photographed and, painted. That photograph was the only studio one taken outside one of the royal palaces. All other photographers had to go to the queen. She was gracious enough to come to me. She was wonderfully artistic and had great taste, and she was a most kind hearted woman. One day, a letter came to her from a man with five children who were starving. Her secretary, who was a great friend of mine, told me she said she would look into the case. "Look into it!" exclaimed the Queen with impulsive generosity. "There's no time. The man is starving. Send five pounds to him immediately." And so the money was sent.

My light, bright studio is lined with portraits. Many of them are of Queen Mary at every stage of her life. The latest is one taken with the little Princess Elizabeth. Nearly all are signed simply, "Mary." In the passage leading to the studio is a signed photo of Queen Alexandra.

I may say that I am the pioneer woman photographer who has been my romance and I love my work. For years my father, the well-known painter of all the chief society beauties of his day, was my helpmate in my work and my constant companion.

In his youth my father greatly resembled the great painter Millais. The likeness was so remarkable that on one occasion his own brother was deceived.

One day Millais's brother came to explain his absence from the Royal Academy School.

"Your brother is hard at work upstairs," said the master. Fuzzled, the youth hurried up to the studio and was astonished to see his brother, whom he had left in bed, painting away for dear life. When he looked more closely he was amazed to find that the industrious student was the much younger pupil, Edward Hughes. The likeness disappeared as the men grew older. Millais asked my father to paint one of his grand-daughters, and the completed portrait has often been referred to as "one of Millais's best works." Twice John Millais took the gold medal of the society and each time my father received the silver.

As children we lived in Scarsdale Lodge, at the bottom of Wright's Lane, Kensington. Next door to us lived Ned Sothorn, afterwards known as the Elder Sothorn. He was a protégé of the famous actor, Charles Keene, who advised and encouraged him. He created the once famous character of Lord Dundreary. On the other side of the house lived an Indian Princess, the grandmother of Prince Duleep Singh. To us the house seemed a slice out of the Arabian Nights. Animals for the household consumption were killed in the grounds, and the garden was guarded by falcons curiously garbed, with hawks on their wrists.

Prince Duleep Singh was the owner of the Koh-i-noor diamond which he presented to our crown. Talking of eastern rulers recalls to my mind the story of the Shah who visited London. Having thoroughly seen all over London, he said he wished to see a criminal being put to death. He was politely informed that this was impossible as there was no prisoner under sentence. With a smile the Shah waived the objection aside. "Take one of these," he said, pointing to his retinue, and could not at all understand that it still could not be.

My father at first opposed my setting up in business. It was the Duke of Leinster who overcame his objections with the very sensible remark: "You sell your pictures, why shouldn't I had every opportunity to make money, and I am not a wealthy woman to-day only because I am extremely unbusinesslike."

My first sitters consisted of a party of four, Mrs. Low and her sister, now the Hon. Rowland Leigh, and Colonel Dugdale, the handsomest man I have ever met.

Among my early sitters were many wives of South African magnates. I have always thought that these men knew that the South African was coming because for several months previously they had been steadily sending their wives and children over here. At one time or another I have met all the big financiers of the Kaffir King. Matabele Thompson was one of the interesting men I met at this time. He told me about his adventures when the prisoners of Lobengula. After a series of thrilling adventures he managed to escape, but he was lost in the bush without water. The pains of hunger, he said, are as nothing as compared with the torments of thirst. He was reduced to sucking pebbles to induce saliva, before he at last fell on a friendly trail.

Mrs. Solly Joel came to me several times to be photographed. She told me a rather humorous story. A friend of theirs had a Basuto boy on their dairy farm in South Africa. Noticing him milking a cow in rather an awkward position, he gave him a milking stool saying, "This is a milking stool." The boy was highly delighted. But he came back from his milking that night in a sorry state, battered and bruised and with torn clothing.

"Whatever the matter?" inquired his master.

"Baas," said the boy sorrowfully, "stool no good, no good at all. Cow wouldn't sit on it!"

Of all the many society beauties whom my father painted one of the most beautiful was the daughter of Mr. Chamberlain of Ohio, U.S.A., whose portrait was among one of the earliest that he painted. Miss Jeanie Chamberlain came to London with her parents, and she was so lovely that the look the town by storm and became the rage. A golden-haired beauty, she was at one time said to have all the eligible peers at her feet. She sat for my father, and her likeness was placed on exhibition at Agnew's Galleries and evoked the greatest enthusiasm, being visited by countless crowds. She became Lady Taylor Layland and is now hangs at Hyde Park House, her great treasure-house, to which have come most of the distinguished people of the day, including many royal personages.

Among the visitors to the gallery were the Prince and Princess of Wales. They were so pleased with it that they promised to let my father paint the princess.

The first royal portraits that my father had the honor of painting was that of the Duchess of York, now Her Majesty Queen Mary. The picture was to be a surprise for the royal family and the sittings were arranged privately. One day an awkward question arose. The Duchess of Connaught made a sudden appointment and came to see me. When the Duchess of York arrived we had to hurry her out of the dressing room into my father's studio while I told a tale of a mysterious sitter to prevent the duchess from entering the studio.

This picture was a tremendous success. It was placed above the King's own writing table and is, I believe, still His Majesty's favorite portrait of the Queen. My father managed to convey the Queen's wonderful coloring of hair and complexion. When this was done, the Princess of Wales (later Queen Alexandra) came in fulfillment of her promise. "You painted such a pretty portrait of May!" she said to him. "I have been a long time keeping my promise, but here I am!"

The portrait when completed was placed on exhibition at the Guildhall. After this I first painting of Queen Alexandra, the Princesses Victoria and Maud both had their portraits painted. Some time later my father and I were invited to spend the day at Sandringham. We spent a lovely day there. At first I had been nervous, but Miss Knollys met us and her kindly welcome soon made us feel at home. We waited in the hall till the Princess of Wales joined us and asked us what we should like to see. I voted for the tennis and stables, and we went there to the accompaniment of such a chorus of yelping and barking such as I have never heard before.

We saw Perimeter, the Derby winner in his box. After the stables, the princess herself showed us the magnificent ball room and the wonderful collection of ivory which the Prince had sent home from India. Prince and Princess Charles of Denmark had cycled over from Appleton House for lunch, and I sat between the latter and the Princess Victoria.

The next picture my father painted was of the late Queen in her opening of Parliament dress and I took a photograph at the same time. After I had taken the photograph, we saw the royal procession from a stand in the palace garden.

Our next royal commission was for my father to paint the Queen in her coronation robes. Everything was ready for the ceremony. I was busy photographing peacocks in their coronation dresses. Adelaide, Duchess of Bedford, was as a matter of fact sitting to me at the moment, when an old friend, Colonel Findlay, burst into the studio in a state of violent excitement. He told us that the King was gravely ill and was to be operated upon at once.

The operation (for appendicitis) was a success, and the postponed coronation ceremony was held. We spent the day at Buckingham Palace. We saw the royal party set off and then wandered about the palace till they returned. We had fitted up a covered balcony as a temporary studio, and there the Queen came immediately on her return. Her Majesty looked very tired, but very lovely. She showed us the crown and pointed out the Kohinoor, most precious of all the royal gems.

My father went to Buckingham Palace several times for sittings for this portrait. It had been meant as a present for Queen Alexandra's father, the King of Denmark, but long before it was finished the court declared that so lovely a portrait of the Queen must never leave the country. The Queen presented it to the King on the anniversary of their wedding. Father painted three copies of it. One went to Denmark and is hung in the royal palace at Copenhagen. The Maharajah of Patiala has the second, while the third is in the possession of Lord Howe. We were invited to Buckingham Palace where Queen Alexandra led us to the white drawing-room. There the picture hung alone.

She expressed the pleasure of the King and herself and presented him with the Artists' Gold Medal, a private decoration, and a signal honor which she had never before bestowed. Their Majesties and the court thought most highly of this portrait, and the general verdict was expressed by Sir Edward Poynter: "A beautiful picture of a beautiful woman!"

My father once had the doubtful honor of keeping the late King and Queen waiting. He had been commissioned to paint a portrait of the Queen at Sandringham. He was to attend to a small alteration in one of his portraits. He asked for Miss Knollys, and sat chatting with her expecting a summons at any moment. At last, long past the hour of his appointment, he suggested he had better start on his work. That was the first Miss Knollys had heard of it. In the meantime Her Majesties had got tired of waiting and had gone off to their next appointment.

"Unhappy lies the head that wears the crown," is a statement to which many a royal lady would heartily agree. In one of my photographs I took the Infanta Eulalia of Spain in a magnificent tiara of pearls and diamonds. Her maid brought it to the studio in a piece of muslin looking rather like a large cauliflower. She made me put it on to see how heavy it was. It was certainly very becoming, but after wearing it for a few moments I hastily removed the glittering ornament. As to dancing in it, I told her I could not imagine a more exquisite form of torture.

"Horrid thing!" she said looking disadvisedly at the flashing gems. "I've had to wear it often at dances. Once when I was waiting with the ex-Kaiser I thought the music would never stop. He is a great talker so did not notice anything. Between the weight of his conversation and the weight of my tiara, I thought my head would burst! When the dance was over I literally bolted out of the ballroom and made my maid find me something simpler to wear. It was the Kaiser who sent me to you. He said if I wanted a good photo, I could not do better than give you a call!"

On one occasion I went with my father to the Berkeley Hotel. While I was there Lady Daglish (whom my father also painted) was discussing with her secretary the amount to be given to a certain charity. She hesitated for a few minutes: "Did I say five thousand or seven thousand?" I listened fascinated. "I'd better make it seven," she concluded. Later on she told me that the price of marmalade was so dear at the Berkeley that she was obliged to send out her footman to buy her a pot!

Georgina, Countess of Dudley, was one of the most famous beauties painted by my father. She was proud, high-spirited girl and her marriage was more or less arranged for her. It was, so a guest told me, a strange affair. After the ceremony the bride would not come down and her father in a rage fetched her and simply threw her into the carriage that was waiting to take her on her honeymoon. A month later she declared she was the happiest young woman in the world!

Mrs. Vaughan of the Temple was another of our friends. When I was a child, everyone went to her Monday dinners. On one occasion Mrs. Vaughan, looking rather worried, drew my father aside. "I am very anxious," she confided to him. "I have invited some distinguished Indian guests. They have not come and everyone is fidgeting waiting for supper."

"Consult Buttons!" was my father's suggestion. She rang for Buttons, who came.

"Lord Mum," he ejaculated, "there was a whole circus of them here a few minutes ago, but I took them for a troupe of Christie minstrels and sent them packing!"

My father used to stroll round the grounds of his estate with the Duke of Leinster, who took his duties as a landlord very seriously. The estate was in fine order. "Not inheritance," he said, "being equally vast responsibilities and entail enormous expenditure. When once the repair bill is paid, what is left would amuse some of those who talk so glibly about dual wealth." On the last day of his visit to their country seat, the Duke took my father into his study and asked him to sign his name to a very special book. "It contains the names of those whom I account friends for life. Once inscribed here, you have to commit some very heinous crime before I shall erase you!"

Lady Carnegie, another of father's friends, told me that she owed to him the discovery of the value of dirt cruminate reading. "As a girl," she said, "I'm afraid my taste ran to the 'yellow back.' He taught me to read with a purpose. When she went with her husband to Pekin, father asked her to get some of the real Chinese vermilion. It was very difficult to obtain this brand, as it was a secret preparation used officially for writing the death warrants of those condemned to capital punishment. She managed to get some of this paint and sent it to us."

Lady Carnegie, though a very beautiful woman, fell short of the standard set by the Chinese, for she lacked the brilliant coloring that the East demands. The Empress of China was always telling her that with a little attention she could improve her appearance considerably. So one day, just for fun, she let the court ladies do what they liked with her hair and complexion. They "coiffed" her English locks in orthodox Chinese style, painted her cheeks and lips with vermilion, and delicately blackened her eyebrows, entirely altering the apparent shape of her eyes. The Empress laughed delightedly. "Now you are a beauty!" she said. Her husband gazed when she recognized his wife in the painted lady, but he did not at all approve. So Lady Carnegie was content to fall short of the Empress's standard of beauty!

Max Beerbohm used to tell a story, when the use of cosmetics first began to be general among ladies. A certain masterful husband was taking his wife to a dance. When she appeared in all her "war paint," he said to her: "Before you go out, you will go upstairs and remove all that disgusting paint and powder." The lady meekly obeyed and appeared before him a few minutes later. He looked at her for a moment, then turning his back on her said calmly: "Go upstairs and put it all on again!"

FRENCH AIR FORCE GIVES DISPLAY OF PROWESS OVER PARIS

Important air manoeuvres took place over Paris recently when the French Air Force showed how it would defend the capital if it was necessary. Showy attacks and other "war-atmosphere" stunts were performed and the whole affair was very spectacular. The main picture was taken at Le Bourget aerodrome and shows French machines drawn up for review. The other picture shows a squadron of Italian fighters who gave a display of stunt flying during the manoeuvres. Climbing in perfect formation, the Italian planes presented an interesting picture.

Consult the most recent chart and lay out a course with the leading marks for the several channels. It is possible to obtain the services of a man who really knows the coast and the tides.

PARKS

To the Editor:—You have so many letters on this interesting subject it seems out of place to add one more, but the citizens are so interested that it seems necessary to do so in the hope that something of a practical and progressive nature will result. It would be interesting if the City Fathers were to publish a tabulated report showing how much of the taxpayers' money has been spent on unemployment and just what we have received in return, of a permanent nature, to help the city and surrounding district from a tourist viewpoint.

The city started on employment work by cutting over 10,000 cords of wood near Thetis Lake and Goldstream watershed. What did this wood-cutting cost, and what has been done with the wood? The aldermen should agree that this is a fair question, and surely the taxpayers should be told these facts.

We have read an account lately in the newspapers of the very creditable work as a landscape gardener of Mr. James Wilkinson, who has accomplished such excellent results at the Royal Oak Burial Park. Could not his advice and experience be used in our other park problems? We also read in the press the record of Mr. George Fraser of Uclulet, West Coast of Vancouver Island, who has won world-wide renown as a successful horticulturist, and from his nursery there has sent out many new plants and shrubs to Great Britain and other places. At his nursery at Uclulet he probably has the finest collection of rhododendrons and azaleas in the world, as well as many other varieties of shrubs and flowers. Over forty years ago this same George Fraser created the only beauty spot that the city has attempted, by laying out and planting Goodacre Lake in Beacon Hill Park. It is pathetic when one thinks of what a different result we would have had with all our park areas had the city been fortunate enough to have had a man of Mr. George Fraser's capabilities in charge of the work during these last forty years.

The other day we read in the press that two horticulturists have gone north to secure more rock and Alpine plants, which are indigenous to this province. Perhaps many people do not know that British Columbia is the mecca for the best collectors of rock and Alpine plants. Victoria is the capital city of the province, and surely it would not be out of place were we to have a suitable collection of the latest possibilities we have of our parks to show the visitors and tourists that we hope to bring here. The cost of this would not be great, and it would certainly add to our attractions.

Taking the whole question of making Victoria and the surrounding district attractive into consideration, won't it not be well if some of the members of the Horticultural Society undertook to address some of our service clubs and fully inform them of the latent possibilities we have surrounding us and from which we are deriving no benefit because we do not know how to take advantage of the situation. It is pathetic to think of what might have been done with the money spent on unemployment under proper guidance, planning, and full knowledge of what we were trying to accomplish.

KUMTUX.

SEAWALL IS SUGGESTED

Alderman J. D. Hunter Puts Forward Scheme For Federal Programme

Establishment of a federal building in Victoria, as a part of the works plan of the Dominion Government, is a step in the right direction in providing work, but greater benefit would accrue from some project to increase the tourist value of the city, Alderman J. D. Hunter told members of the City Council at their meeting yesterday evening.

His remarks were made following the reading of his motion censuring the federal authorities for apparent discrimination against Victoria when federal finances were apportioned to the different districts of the province.

Copies of the resolution endorsed by the council will be sent to Premier Bennett and D. B. Plunkett, member for Victoria.

"I think Victoria and the lower part of Vancouver Island have been very badly treated by Ottawa," Alderman Hunter stated. He cited the removal of the Workmen's Compensation Board from Victoria to Vancouver and similar action taken more recently on the Department of Public Works.

While he realized the erection of a marine building here would help employment, he voiced the view that a programme which called for work and wages for the working man was needed.

SEAWALL SCHEME

"We have all wanted more money, but how are we to spend it?" he asked before developing a scheme to build a retaining wall around the coast from O'Brien Point to Clover Point, which would act as a tourist attraction and prevent erosion. He believed $50,000 spent on such a wall would do more good and afford more work for the working man than other projects suggested.

Alderman R. T. Williams seconded his protest against the smallness of an undertaking for the federal government.

"I would like to say I don't think Alderman Hunter's motion is strong enough," Alderman Walter Luney said in connection with the move to complain against the size of the grant. He pointed to the appropriations given to much smaller centres and added the city seemed to be getting a poor deal in comparison.

The annual meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island will be held in Duncan on July 11 and 12, the Chamber of Commerce directors were advised at their luncheon in Spencer's dining-room yesterday. Programme will open on July 11 with a banquet at 6:30 o'clock, while the business sessions will commence the following morning at 9 o'clock.

WEST COAST ROAD IS SOUGHT AGAIN

The attention of the provincial government will be drawn to the policy of former Liberal administration here in forwarding the construction of a West Coast Road as the result of a motion, sponsored by Alderman R. T. Williams and endorsed by the City Council yesterday evening.

The road would be no more difficult to construct than the Malahat, which had been built at a very low cost, Alderman Williams stated.

Alderman John A. Worthington spoke of the value of such a road to Banfield cable station in the event of war, and added it was one of the easiest ways of handling relief labor. He suggested the support of the Good Roads League be sought in the drive for the highway.

WORKERS AGAIN STATE DEMANDS

Esquimalt Reeve and Council Will Send Reply to Relief Communication

The reeve and council in committee of the whole will go into the communication submitted by Hans Kroeger on behalf of the Esquimalt Workers' Welfare Association, the C.C.F. Club, Rev. Alan Gardiner and Rev. Father Wood. It was decided on a motion by Councillor Albert Heald at yesterday evening's meeting of the Esquimalt Council.

The communication, closing with a demand for prompt action on the part of the council action for a repetition of the assertion that no excuse existed for the inadequate relief given in Esquimalt, was recently made public through the press after the delegation from the municipality had seen the Deputy Minister of Labor and the Deputy Attorney-General for the purpose of clarifying the issues at stake.

A good-sized crowd, including Mr. Kroeger, turned out at the council meeting in anticipation of a discussion of the Esquimalt workers' position, but an adjournment was made not much more than a half-hour after the beginning.

Mr. Kroeger wanted to know when the committee discussion of the communication would take place, but was told by Reeve Alex Lockley that the time was a matter for the council to decide and was reminded that Mr. Heald's motion called for a written answer from the council immediately after the discussion.

"This is poor procedure. It is unconstitutional," observed Mr. Kroeger as the chamber commenced to empty.

DARING TRAPEZE ARTIST

Nanaimo Folder Brings Protest

Advertising Folders Urge Tourists Turn North, Chamber of Commerce Told

Tourist publicity put out by upper Vancouver Island boards of trade, urging travelers to "turn north at Nanaimo," is to be the subject of a protest lodged by Victoria representatives to the annual meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island to be held in Duncan next month.

At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors here yesterday, the matter was brought forward by Harold Husband, president of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, who pointed out that in advertising folders sent out from Victoria the whole of the island was publicized. It was also inferred this was the purpose of organization among the boards of trade, to encourage co-operative advertising.

The matter was left to delegates to take up at the meeting.

ADVERTISING HAS BIG ROLE

W. T. Brace Tells of Its Relations to Trade Upswing in Britain

W. T. BRACE

Montreal, June 26.—"England is definitely overcoming many of her post war problems. In certain industries factories are running three shifts a day, unemployment figures are improving and United Kingdom manufacturers are once again out for world trade," stated W. T. Brace, newly appointed director of A. McKim Limited, Advertising Agency, on his return to the Montreal offices of the company after spending eight years as manager of the London, England office.

Since his return, Mr. Brace, who has been with A. McKim Limited for upwards of twenty years, has visited the Halifax and Toronto offices of the company and will shortly visit the Winnipeg and Vancouver offices.

Advertising, he declared, is playing an important part in the general trend of recovery. British manufacturers are more "advertising conscious" than they once were and have come to regard large display space as an essential rather than a luxury. Coupled with their enthusiasm for advertising is the fact that they are paying more attention than ever to market requirements and are making their products to the specifications and peculiarities of the various markets. The upturn in business has resulted in the scrapping of obsolete machinery and this has been accompanied by a movement of many manufacturing plants from the crowded centres of London to newly formed industrial centres on the outskirts.

More Englishmen than ever are visiting Canada and other parts of the Empire to develop outlets for their products. Britain exports and imports more than any other country in the world and there is a very wide market in England for Canadian products, he concluded.

CITY BUYS OWN BONDS

The council also backed the purchase of unsold refunding debentures of 1934 to the extent of $291,100 with interest at 5½ per cent as funds were available.

Both deals will be set towards the sinking fund.

SAVE COUPLE IN SAILBOAT

James Reside and Ernest Gawley Rescue Small Craft Caught in Tide Rip

Two unknown boys in a flat-bottomed sail boat, Tillicum, were rescued off Trial Island Sunday evening by James Reside, 3133 Quimper Street, and Ernest Gawley, Superior Street. The boys miscalculated the tide between the island and Point Point and were towed into Poul Bay by Reside and his companion who were returning from a fishing trip.

"The boys who were sailing, and discovering they could make no headway against the tide, dropped their sails and started paddling with two oars. Their boat was not equipped with rowlocks and they were still unable to make any progress.

Seeing their plight, Reside and Gawley threw them a tow line and after a hard row for about an hour, reached Poul Bay safely. The lifeboat, owned by A. S. Denny had been summoned in the meantime and reached the two small boats as they reached Poul Bay. It then towed the sailboat into the bay.

The rescuers were modest about their feat and passed it off with "we were only too glad to give them a hand."

It was the first occasion on which the lifeboat had been summoned to aid a boat in difficulty. It was manned by George Mutch, coxswain; Alex McDonald, John McDonald, Raderrick Wilson and James Millikan.

ASK CHANGE IN RELIEF

City Council Told Minister of Labor Working on New Scheme

Dissatisfaction with present methods of distributing relief and announcement that Hon. George M. Pearson, Minister of Labor, was working on a new system featured a debate on relief matters at the City Council meeting yesterday evening.

Called upon to explain certain phases of existing relief, Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins, chairman of the city's relief committee, stated Mr. Pearson was working on a new method of distribution and until it was finished the city body could do nothing.

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar stated he believed the whole matter should be discussed by the entire council. He discussed by the entire council.

"I'm convinced there are some injustices being perpetrated, perhaps unintentionally, on our home owners," he said, referring to the meagre allowance given single men who owned property.

Nothing could be done at present under existing laws were brought forcibly to the notice of the government.

PRESENT RULINGS

Alderman Hawkins explained the stand of men on relief at present. He said married men received an allowance and single men were sent to camps, with the exception of those who were physically unfit to put up with camp life. Walter Inuit, who started the discussion with a letter of protest to the council, was single and a home owner.

Alderman Hawkins stated, "Consequently he could secure only a meagre allowance if he worked for it."

"I'm heartily in accord with Alderman Dewar," Alderman Hawkins stated. The system was such that it would make good, honest men, dishonest unless it was changed, he said.

He cited specific examples where apparent injustices were shown, adding "These are cases with which the council cannot deal. They are cases for the government."

Alderman Hawkins referred to one case of two men, one of whom had saved and built himself a home, and another who had spent his money in saloons. The man with the home, under existing conditions, could not secure relief work because he had assets in the form of his house and furniture, while the man who had not saved was working on the road before the home owner's house.

SOOKE

A meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Knox Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Murray, the president, on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Saunders, president of the Victoria auxiliary, gave a sketch of the River district in parts of the Peace River district where Deaconess Miss Grigor is engaged, holding services, teaching the children and nursing the sick. Mrs. Saunders was warmly thanked for her address. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. G. H. McAllister of Victoria.

Mrs. Eber and daughter from the prairies have taken up their residence on the Church Road.

Mrs. Wrenk G. Gray and Mrs. William Shields and children have returned home from Waldron Island and vicinity, where they have spent the last two weeks visiting friends and relatives.

SHAWNIGAN HAS SCHOOL SPORTS

Prof. G. C. Sedgewick Presents Prizes at Function on Saturday

Last Saturday the Shawnigan Lake School held its annual water sports and prize-giving. A large number of parents and friends of the school were present.

The programme opened with a race for shells, which was won by Ripley's House by half a length. This was followed by the junior 50 yards, the senior diving and 50 yards, and the middle diving and 50 yards. A race for old boys preceded the house relay race, the most exciting of the afternoon, which was won by Groves's house.

C. W. Lonsdale, headmaster, commented on the work of the year before introducing Professor G. C.
Sedgewick, who presented the prizes.
Professor Sedgewick, in his address, gave a detailed analysis of the work prize with its three distinct meanings, according to its derivations. It was something to be grasped, something of value and something praiseworthy, he said. Not only those who won prizes derived benefit from the effort expended, nor must those who failed to win prizes look down upon those who did, which was quite frequently the case. In conclusion, he reiterated that from those to whom much was given much would be expected.

General Sir Percy Lake, chairman of the board of governors, referred to the hobby shop and paid Mr. Lonsdale a well deserved tribute for all his work for the school.

Tes was served on the lawn to upwards of 350 guests, who afterwards looked over the new hobby shop and pavilion.

The prize list was as follows: Form
VII: P. P. Fuller; form VI: J. E.
Maybee; form VA: D. Corbett; form VB: C. R. Day; form IV: C. T. Corse; remove, R. M. Day; form III: W. E.
Ridewood; form II: L. S. Musgrave;
general progress II: P. C. Musgrave; Lord Bishop of Columbia's prize for general progress II: A. R. Guthrie; J. P. Mackie; rowing cup, Ripley's sports cup, Ripley's sportsmanship, G. W. Reed; senior championship, D. P. Matthews, and old boy race, G. Oakes.

HEAR NRA MAN

Member of Washington State Committee Gives Talk in Victoria

So as to see what bearing the work being done under the NRA has on the British Columbia situation, local automobile dealers were hosts to F.
Nagelvorret, a member of the Washington State advisory committee on the administration of the automotive code of the NRA, at a Union Club dinner Saturday evening.

"Many of the dealers in my state have informed me that if it had not been for the National Recovery Act as applied to the automobile industry, they would have had to place a
'for sale' sign on the front doors of their establishments," said Mr. Nagelvorret, giving a warm appreciation of the Roosevelt policies.

The speaker traced the activity of the present U.S. administration from the President's inauguration until the NRA was established in June of last year.

Of the automotive code signed last October, Mr. Nagelvorret said one of its most important clauses was the one which established maximum hours of work and minimum wages.

Rains Have Slowed Down
Retail Business; Outlook
Bright, Say Credit Men

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, June 26.—A generally optimistic picture of wholesale trade is indicated in the weekly trade report issued by the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association. Retail trade in many centres has been slowed down by rains, however.

The report follows for the week ending June 23, 1934:

Halifax—Wholesale and retail trade continues to show a moderate turnover. Collections fair.

Saint John—Wholesalers generally report increased volume. Wet weather has adversely affected retail trade. Collections fair.

Montreal—Wholesalers report a fair week's business. Both city and country retail merchants report a rather quiet week. Collections slow.

Toronto—Sales returns showing continued improvement in the country, cities are somewhat slower. Collections fair.

Winnipeg—Wholesalers report satisfactory turnover continues. Retail trade generally fair. Collections fair.

Regina—Wholesalers report a favorable volume being maintained.
Retail trade shows improvement.
Country trade fair. Retail, just fair.

Moos Jaw—Wholesale and retail trade fairly good. Collections fair.

Saskatoon—Wholesale trade holding up well and continues to show improvement over last year. Retail city trade continues fair to good.
Country trade holding up fairly well.

Romance, satire and farce are combined with highly pleasing results in
"Where Sinners Meet," RKO-Radio's sparkling comedy of human foibles which will come to the Capitol Theatre Wednesday.

The story, although somewhat daring in theme, is handled in such skilful fashion that it will not offend the most fastidious. In gay and light-handed manner it advances the brief that many contemplated marriages would never take place if the prospective bride and groom each had an opportunity to see the other at his or her worst.

Diana Wynyard and Clive Brook are co-starred, and it is the first time these popular players have been seen together since they scored such personal hits in the epic, "Cavalcade."

Billie Burke, as a wife who is never happy unless she has a man to pamper, adds new laurels to her long list of comedy successes. Reginald Owen, as Miss Burke's husband, and Gilbert Emery, as one of the most remarkable butlers ever seen on the stage, garner a large share of the laughs with which the play is studded.

An old, faded photo of Marie Dressler, long before even her Weber and Fields days on the stage, had one of the most important parts in her latest appearance on the screen.

From it was painted the portrait which proves the crux of the dramatic situation in "Her Sweetheart," in which she and Lionel Barrymore are currently appearing on the Playhouse screen.

The painting, supposed to be one painted by an artist who loved her in her youth, precipitates the entire dramatic climax of the amazing story, adapted by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer from the celebrated stage play, "The Last Christopher Bean."

Lanny Ross, as yet, has not realized his life's ambition.

Although he is one of the most celebrated radio tenors and is now under a long term contract with Paramount, he is not satisfied.

He wants to go on a concert tour and is now making plans to build a suitable repertoire for presentation in the larger cities.

The radio star, featured in "Melody in Spring," now at the Columbia Theatre, has made a study of French, Italian, German and Swedish, that he might include arias in these languages on his programmes. In "Mel-fused with Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland and Anna Stothart.

This picture, revealing the actual devastation of war, has been brought

Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, thinks that it is high time people should see again what war really is and witness the destruction it causes.

In making "All Quiet" it required more than 20,000 pounds of black give the realistic effect of shellfire and mine explosions. Six thousand bombs were planted and exploded.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

JACK SHARKEY, once the loquacious Lithuanian, was anything but talkative in the shindig between Max Baer and Primo Carnera. In fact, he well might have been referred to as the "Forgotten Man of Boxing."

He gave out no interviews, spoke little; in fact, he was just around. A few days before the fight he did, however, open up a little but only after some pressing, a most unusual thing for Sharkey.

He was around, but something seemed to prey on his mind. He missed the limelight that was his not so long ago. He was going through the stage unknown to lesser mortals when the hero of yesterday becomes the normal man of to-morrow.

Yet, Jack Sharkey's opinion on a championship event must have been worth while having. No better man could be qualified to speak about championship matches, especially one in which Carnera, the man who started Jack's downward trend toward oblivion, figured.

Sharkey was an exceptional fighter, an in-and-out in the parlance of the ring. Jack Dempsey deprived him of his first chance to win the coveted diadem of pugilism, yet fortune favored him so that, despite that terrific setback, he was to have another opportunity at the crown, and that time he emerged victorious.

Deep down, buried somewhere, where not even his intimates are permitted to peep, Sharkey blames Dempsey for the unpopularity that was his when he held the championship. He bitterly recalls that night at the New York Polo grounds when he was having it all his own way until Dempsey allegedly fouled him and was allowed to get away with it. He showed the resentment he felt, and which he has never forgotten, the evening of the Baer-Carnera fight.

It was outside Mike Jacobs' ticket office in the heart of the White Light district. Dempsey met Sharkey face to face on the street. His greeting was the usual Dempsey type of welcome.

But it appeared as if Sharkey's response was somewhat cold. His smile looked forced. And then Dempsey jokingly exclaimed, "Do you remember this, Jack?"

And with both hands in a simultaneous motion he let two imaginary blows go, one well below the belt and the other on the chin. That was the famous double blow which started so much controversy after their fight.

The victory was Dempsey's return match with Gene Tunney, which, incidentally, drew the richest receipts on record, $2,658,660. No Jack Sharkey had not forgotten.

For a moment a queer and bitter look was observed in Sharkey's eyes. It passed almost as quickly as it came. He then and with a wave of the hand walked away.

Both Jack Sharkey and Jack Dempsey have left their pugilistic careers far behind them, but it would have been interesting to see how the two could have been transplanted to a rink at that particular instant and allowed to go to it. Dempsey would have had his hands full with the "Sharky" of that moment.

S. F. Rous, who refereed this year's English Cup final, has been chosen by the football council as the ideal man to fill the shoes of Sir Frederick Wall, who is retiring from the secretaryship of the English Football Association at the end of this month.

Referee Rous, who is games master at Watford Grammar School, has qualities which make him admirably fitted to take over such an important position. He has held numerous offices in the game, among them being Hertfordshire's representative, honorary secretary of the West Herts Football Association and honorary secretary of the Isthmian League.

He was one of the most sought-after referees in the country. He refereed the Football Association Cup final at Wembley and on numerous occasions he has had charge of international and cup games on the continent. Possessing great tact and a charming personality, together with ability as a linguist, he should make a great success at his new job. Rous will take up his new duties almost immediately. His commencing salary will be £280, rising to £1,500. Another source of interest is the announcement that the football league has decided to decommence the football association that 15,000 cup final tickets instead of 7,500 be allocated to the clubs reaching that stage of the Challenge Cup competition. A number of clubs had signified themselves unwilling to accept the responsibility of disposing of such a large number as 15,000, but the meeting was almost unanimous in its adoption of the recommendation.

Lew Rush Rides At Los Angeles

Los Angeles, June 26.—Charlie Winter and Russell Yates, New York and Chicago, took the lead in the international six-day bicycle race here yesterday when the Australian-Canadian team of Harris Horder and Lew Rush failed to make a proper change and were penalized two laps.

After eighty-four hours of grueling pedaling, the leaders had traveled 1,356 miles nine laps and had garnered 214 points from sensational sprinting.

The penalty inflicted on the team of Horder and Rush forced them back into fifth place.

It was understood Crawford desires to save his efforts for the singles. Frank Shields, top ranking United States player, blasted Pierre Landry, France, out of the tournament, 6-4, 6-4, 6-0.

VERITY GETS MUCH PRAISE

Bowling Star in England's Test Cricket Victory Lauded By Newspapers

London, June 26.—All England to-day cheered Hedley Verity, tall slow-action left-arm bowler from Yorkshire, whose feat in taking fifteen wickets in a single game saved the English team its first victory over Australia in a test match at Lord's since 1896 by an innings and 88 runs.

General enthusiasm over the accomplishment of the twenty-nine-year-old Yorkshireman was summarized punningly by The London Times in the words: "Magnus est Verity et prevaleat."

The Times said his feat was one of the greatest in test-match history. All newspapers expressed satisfaction that the English team showed ability to seize the opportunity presented by the rain-soaked pitch of Monday.

Sports writers paid tribute to the captaincy of R. E. S. Wyatt, and took particular note of his refusal to declare lunch-time Saturday, and his decision to enforce the rule that made the Australians follow on after their first innings had brought them only 282 runs in reply to England's first innings score of 440.

The Daily Mail also commended Wyatt's refusal to accept a new ball at 200 in the Australians' first innings, thereby enabling Verity to continue with the worn ball which broke better than a new one would have done.

Australia's veteran captain, W. M. Woodfull, paid glowing tribute to England's smashing victory. "The only thing I can say is I congratulate the team most heartily," Woodfull said. "They saw their chance and they took it. There is nothing further I can say."

Fans intending to make the trip to Sidney to witness the games can secure transportation by telephoning the league secretary, Sid Thomas at Empire 2193. ## Announce Line-ups For Charity Game

Cox's Army and Police Will Trot Out Strong Clubs For Opening Ball Game at Beacon Hill To-morrow Night; Start at 6.15

Team line-ups for to-morrow evening's opening charity baseball game at Beacon Hill, between Cox's Army and the Victoria Police, were announced to-day. Bill Cox, pilot of the Army nine, has got together a formidable crew to tackle the men in blue, and is figuring on starting the season with a victory. Play will get started at 6.15 o'clock. Plenty of comedy has been arranged for the programme and the fans are certain of getting plenty of laughs.

Bobby Ross will be looking after the catching duties for the Army. Just what Manager Cox will use as a starting pitcher remains a secret. He stated this morning he will likely trot out a dark horse to use against the police. Pete Ballaway will be at first base and Bunney Cox on second.

Shortstop will be looked after by Tommy Macedo. For third base the Army have succeeded in signing Ralph Rogers, Vancouver. Rogers will make a special trip by airplane from the mainland city to play here. In the outfield will be Bill Cox, Andy Veitch and another good man.

POLICE TEAM
The police will have the following men on hand: Doug Bone, Tommy Stevenson, Sam McKenzie, Bill Belcher, Nicot, Atkinson, Woolsey, Anderson and Dave Donaldson. The bluecoats have been out practicing for the last couple of weeks, and report they have taken all the kinks out of their arms.

Starting from in front of the Crystal Garden at 5.45 o'clock a children's parade has been arranged by Bill Cox. After getting organized the kiddies will parade out to the grounds and later in the evening will be supplied with candy.

The Boys' Band will be in attendance along with a couple of comic bands. A collection will be taken and all the money will be turned over to the Chief of Police Thomas Heatley to be given to charity.

Johnny Wenger to Defend Trap Title

Will Head Strong Victoria Delegation to B.C. Championship Trapshoot Meet at Vancouver on Monday; All Mainland Stars Are Entered

When the annual British Columbia championship trapshoot meet is staged at Vancouver on Monday, under the auspices of the Vancouver Gun Club, Victoria will be represented by a formidable squad of scatter-gun artists. Johnny Wenger, present holder of the provincial championship, will head the local delegation. Wenger is shooting well and figures to make a strong bid for his second straight crown. Accompanying Wenger will be Doug McGary, L. North, E. Wilson, Horace Beer, Frank Gross and E. Hagenfratz. It is also possible H. Hagenfratz and Arthur Ruckel will make the trip.

Wenger first came into prominence in 1923, when he won the Pacific International Trapshooters' Association shoot with a score of 327 out of 50. In 1923 he won the doubles championship with 49 out of 50, and in 1925 continued his sensational performance with wins in the doubles and singles. Wenger is the holder of the A. L. Hager Trophy for the B.C. Singles championship.

McGary former champ. McGary was the winner of the B.C. singles championship in 1930 as well as the all-round championship. In addition he won the skeet title that season and added the Lake Crescent Pacific Coast title to his bag in 1925. The same season he was runner-up for the world championship at Los Angeles.

Vancouver's crack shots will oppose these dangerous island shots. They will include Dr. A. R. Baker, True Oliver, Lander, C. W. McLean, Harry Bush, G. A. Britton and F. D. Gordon. Dr. Baker captured the A.T.A. zone championship of Alberta, Washington, Oregon and California back in 1920. True Oliver, the Lander winner, has held the B.C. championship seven times. He won it first in 1907, and repeated again in 1919, 1921, 1924, 1925, 1927 and 1931.

C. W. "Bill" McLean, besides being three-time champion of the province, has held high honors in provincial shoots in 1928-29 and 1930. Art Britton, one of the earliest and most enthusiastic shots in the Vancouver club, was city champion in 1928, and will come from retirement to explode shells in quest of a provincial championship.

Harry E. Bush, Kansas and British Columbia veteran of seventy-nine years, will peer over the sights of his favorite piece in an effort to add new trophies to an already crowded chest. The shoot is registered under the Pacific International Trapshooters' Association. First shots will be exploded at 9 o'clock Monday morning, July 2. The tournament is open to all shooters in the money division, but B.C. amateurs only are eligible for championship trophies. Trap will be open for practice on Saturday, June 30, and from 8:30 to 9 o'clock Monday morning, July 2.

Montreal, June 26.—Their rigid training schedule finished, two of the hardest-hitting bantamweights ever to come together in a Montreal ring, sixto Escobar, Puerto Rican slugger, and Baby Casanova, nineteen-year-old Mexican knockout expert, rested today preparatory to tonight's battle.

The encounter will see a new world champion recognized by the Montreal Athletic Commission. The two men are considered by local experts to be practically on a par, but Casanova gets the edge in the betting.

Spectators will have a chance to view Jean Fautel, colorful Canadian all-round athlete, in his second professional appearance in a preliminary.

Two Victorians In P.N.W. Golf Fight

Jack Matson and Dave Randall Qualify in Spokane Tournament; Dr. Mel Aspray, Home Town Entry, Takes Medal Honors With Score of 142

Spokane, Wash., June 26.—Undaunted by the fact that he was up against former Walker Cup players, ex-champions and heavy favorites, Dr. Mel Aspray, young Spokane X-ray expert, blazed through a field of 106 contestants in the thirty-six-hole qualifying round of the Pacific Northwest amateur golf tournament, yesterday, to win medal honors with a par-breaking 142.

And, while Aspray was molding together two 7's over the par 72 Spokane course, Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, twice, a former northwest champion and Walker Cup star, slipped badly, just getting under the wire, and Don Moe, ex-western amateur titlist and Walker Cup ace, had his troubles, but finished among the first half of the thirty-two qualifiers.

Willing wound up with 159 just ahead of R. T. Ingels and Phil Baird, both of Spokane, who tied at 160 for the last qualifying position, necessitating a play-off.

SOFTBALL

Behind the steady pitching of Max Winkler, Spokane's second-best pitcher, the Spokane Indians played their way to a 27 to 5 victory over the Victoria team yesterday evening's feature C division. Lower Island Softball Association games. By a similar score North Saanich Service Club clinched a play-off berth by trimming Victoria West Social Club at Central Park, where H. Nunn, Saanich, and L. Knapp of the Wests, knocked out circuit drives.

Carucks, leaders in the D division, continued their forward march at the expense of Duroids to a 27 to 5 victory. Fernwood Merchants defeated Maple Leaf 28 to 24, and Squamish Merchants overcame the City Hall 12 to 11. Victoria Ice Company took a loss from the Hustlers.

Jack Matson and Dave Randall Qualify in Spokane Tournament; Dr. Mel Aspray, Home Town Entry, Takes Medal Honors With Score of 142

Spokane, Wash., June 26.—Undaunted by the fact that he was up against former Walker Cup players, ex-champions and heavy favorites, Dr. Mel Aspray, young Spokane X-ray expert, blazed through a field of 106 contestants in the thirty-six-hole qualifying round of the Pacific Northwest amateur golf tournament, yesterday, to win medal honors with a par-breaking 142.

And, while Aspray was molding together two 7's over the par 72 Spokane course, Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, twice, a former northwest champion and Walker Cup star, slipped badly, just getting under the wire, and Don Moe, ex-western amateur titlist and Walker Cup ace, had his troubles, but finished among the first half of the thirty-two qualifiers.

Willing wound up with 159 just ahead of R. T. Ingels and Phil Baird, both of Spokane, who tied at 160 for the last qualifying position, necessitating a play-off.

NOE SLIPS
Moe was riding near the front with a chance for the medal crown until he ran up against a 40 on the finishing nine, and had to be content with 147. He was one under par on the morning eighteen with a 71.

Johnny Robbins, Portland, Oregon state amateur champion; Forest Watson, Seattle, former northwest winner; Laddie Martin, young Roseburg, Ore., sharpshooter, and Howard Trustin, Spokane, tied for second-place honors with 143, just one stroke behind Aspray. Bud Ward, Olympia, followed with a par-equalling 144.

Although finishing in semi-darkness and just ahead of a thunder-lightning-rain storm that caught several players, Ken Storey, diminutive Spokane swinger, posted the lowest eighteen-hole card of the day, when he toured the afternoon round in 66, four under par. This, with his 77 on the first lap, gave him 143, Martin had the best next one-round score of 69.

VICTORIANS IN
Twelve strokes back of the medalist came Jack Matson of the Uplands Club, Victoria. Matson put together two steady rounds of 76-76 for a 154.

Dave Randall, a fellow townsman of Matson's, and the only other Canadian to stay in the title hunt, found plenty of trouble in his morning eighteen and turned in an 82. The slender Victorian, however, steadied down in the afternoon and carded a 76 to stay in the running.

Brice Evans, also of Victoria, needed 164 for the thirty-six holes, and missed the favored thirty-two by four strokes.

WOMEN'S PLAY
Spokane, June 26.—Miss Marion McDougall, dark-haired, slender twenty-year-old star from Portland's Waverly Club, with an 88, led the qualifiers in the eighteen-hole qualifying round of the Pacific Northwest Golf Association's women's tournament here yesterday.

The Portland shot-maker, winner of the Oregon Women's Golf Association tournament, at Portland, last year, was followed by Mrs. Guy Riegel, Spokane, with 85. Miss McDougall and Mrs. Riegel will meet in the opening round of match play today.

Five Seattle women were bunched in the next place, with Mrs. P. P. Nielsen and Mrs. G. B. Butterworth leading the group with 87. Miss Elizabeth Finn and Mrs. W. M. Siltan, followed with 88, and Mrs. G. R. Johnson was next with 89.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—A few days ago a young girl killed herself because her father scolded her because she came home at 1:30 in the morning. I think it is cowardly and indecent for any man to scold or punish a young girl, even if he does happen to be her father. There is no place in this day and age for the old-fashioned, stern parent. I believe that the modern young girl who earns her own living is entitled to a large amount of freedom. If she is old enough and intelligent enough to support herself, she should have learned to take care of herself day or night, to choose proper boys and girl friends, go to proper amusement places, sitting up late at night waiting for her to come in and scolding her won't help much. FATHER OF TWO DAUGHTERS.

Answer—I agree with you that scolding doesn't help much. I doubt if anybody was ever kept in the straight and narrow road by being reviled and abused and made to feel that they had committed the unpardonable sin every time they did a little sidestepping.

But what are parents to do when they see their children headed for destruction? They can't sit idly by without making an effort to save them. They can't forcibly restrain them. They can only "bawl them out," and that only too often drives them away from home and all authority. Or to death, as in the case of this poor girl.

There is no problem under the sun that is so insoluble as how best to deal with the wild and wayward boys and girls of to-day, and it is no wonder that fathers and mothers make so many mistakes in dealing with it.

They see their children violating every law of morals and conduct that they were brought up to respect and doing things that they were taught were indecent. They see their girls painted up like harlots and wearing clothes that would have sent out a hurry call for the police patrol when they were young. They see their girls staying out to all hours of the night, going God knows where, with God knows whom. They see their boys drinking too much, dissipating too much, working too little, with no set aim or purpose in life.

And they can do nothing with these youngsters because John and Sally have small jobs and are not financially dependent upon them. They cannot turn John and Sally out of doors, as the stern father did in days of old, because John and Sally would like nothing better than to be freed of all family restraint and free to "live their lives," as they call it, unhindered by father's and mother's scolding.

And the heartbreaking part is that the parents know the sixteen- and seventeen-year-old John and Sally are not the worldly-wise, sophisticated man and woman that they think they are. They know that they are children who need to be held by the hand and guided and taken care of just as much as they did when they were toddling babes just learning to walk, and they know that without their restraining hands they will stumble and fall and not bump their noses, but break their hearts.

They know that Sally's boast that she can take care of herself is idle bombast. They know that she doesn't even know her way among the pitfalls that lie on either side of her. They know that no little helpless lamb was ever more powerless to defend itself against a ravening wolf than she is to protect herself against the men that prey on innocents such as she is.

The only thing that parents can do about this situation is to prepare their children for life as well as they can. They must begin in the cradle instilling into their boys and girls the principles of clean living and high ideals of duty and conduct. They must teach them self-control and a sense of values. They must inculcate in them a hard, practical philosophy of living. If they do this, they give them at least something to cling to in the hour of temptation and a charm that will safeguard them amidst the dangers among which they must walk. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—What can I do to break up a love affair between my seventeen-year-old high school girl and a nineteen-year-old boy who is also still in school? He is a good boy morally, comes from a nice family, but is the spoiled son of indulgent parents. He has a vague idea of marriage some day, but apparently not in the prospect in the world. I thought it just calf love with them, but the attachment is growing too deep and I sense the danger of a girl's best years being wasted on an admirer where there is no promise. With some sacrifice I could send her away for the summer, but she rebels at leaving. Does youth know better than age, and is my only cue to stand by and let them work it out? WORRIED MOTHER.

Answer—The only thing you can do is to stand by, but you need not stand by idly. There are plenty of ways by which an astute mother can cool off the warmth of a daughter's romance without daughter ever suspecting that mother has joined the fire brigade. After all, you know, at seventeen love isn't a conflagration. It is just a little brush fire that burns itself out without doing any damage.

Your first move should be to stop discussing your daughter's love affair with her. Opposition is not only the greatest matchmaker in the world, but the quickest. It precipitates the very tragedy that you are trying to prevent. Many a boy and girl have rushed into an ill-starred marriage that would never have taken place if they had not been scared into it by thinking that their parents were about to separate them.

So let this affair ride. Let the boy come to see your daughter as often as he wishes. Be nice and casual to him. Don't even laugh at the puppy love romance, for they feel frightfully mature and are certain their experience is the grand passion. Just remember that Time is your ally, and that when the boy goes off to college the chances are that the affair will fade painlessly out.

Sending the girl off is a good idea if you can send her to some amusing place, because absence makes the heart grow fonder of some one else. Even if she resents leaving her sweetheart she will soon get interested in some other chap. She doesn't mop over old loves. It finds a new one. And if she should chance upon some older man who would make her boy sweetheart look young and green and adolescent, the trick would be done.

But I think you are worrying too much over your daughter's matrimonial prospects being blighted by her being involved in a love affair with a boy whose attentions must be without intention for many years to come. If she were twenty-five, the dilatory lover would be a tragedy, but at seventeen he is only a pleasant filter-in of the time.

It is a long, long time before she should think of marriage at all, and before that time comes the boy will either have made good or passed out of the picture. DOROTHY DIX.

UNCLE WIGGLY'S SPOUTING SPRING
By HOWARD E. GARIS
Uncle Wiggly was so pleased with his little trick of making a drink for his hot little bunnies out of summer snow he found down in a deep, rocky valley that the rabbit gentleman went back to the same place next day.
Are you going to make more snow cream? asked the red robed Buntzie Bus who had told Mr. Longears about the strange thing of snow lasting from winter until summer.
"Not right away," answered Mr. Longears. "But I was wondering if there were any other queer sights around here. Are there?"
"Over in that little clump of Christmas trees," said the Bus. "is a bubbling spring of cold water. If ever you are thirsty you can get a cooling drink there."
That's a good thing to know," said Uncle Wiggly. "I'll go get a drink."
A CHRISTMAS TREE GROVE
Over he hopped to the little grove of Christmas trees. Of course they weren't exactly Christmas trees, for on them were no glittering ornaments, no lights and no greens. But they were trees and all that was needed to make them look like Christmas was to decorate them.
"I must remember where they are when I want a tree for next Christmas," said Uncle Wiggly as he looked around for the spring of water. "And it won't be long until Christmas show. Only six months. That isn't long."
Uncle Wiggly saw the spring of water bubbling up out of a sandy place in among some mossy rocks.
"I'll get a drink and then have an adventure," said the rabbit gentleman. He knelt down and put his mouth to the bubbling water.
All of a sudden a strange thing happened. Instead of bubbling up gently, like the garden hose when it is turned on only a little way, the water spouted up with great force. It spouted into Uncle Wiggly's ears, nose and some in his mouth. Most of the water, though, went all over his face and he coughed and sneezed. "Burr-r-r!" he cried when he could get his breath. "Who turned that water on when I was drinking?"
You know how it is sometimes if you go to get a drink at a bubble fountain
